"We are proud to share the result of our hard work over the past few months," states Showroom Coatings owner. "Having identified a need for a higher class of floor coating specifically formulated for Illinois garages, we invested heavily in our materials, equipment and team to ensure our customers benefit from the best coating services nearby from the moment we opened our doors."

The company adds, "Showroom Coatings is now open for business, and we are primed to get to work installing beautiful new showroom garage floor coatings. Reach out today for a free quote or speak with one of our specialists."

Ready to hit the ground running, Showroom Coatings has a team of trained floor technicians who are able to complete a new showroom floor in less than 48 hours. The company understands what it means to the community to have a job done right the first time, and many customers will find that more time is spent diligently planning and prepping a new floor than actually installing it. This preparatory period can be cut down if the customer is familiar with various epoxy coatings and already has a garage space clear of clutter, but most are advised to discuss all their concerns before committing to any specifics.

During a consultation, for instance, customers will learn that epoxy polyaspartic coatings are notable for a variety of reasons, not the least of which is the fact that they resist oil, gas, road salt and more. Before it was recognized as a great candidate for floor coatings, it was actually used in a number of other applications, such as truck bed liners and tank coatings. The properties that made it great in these situations transfer well into use on Chicagoland garage floors which experience harsh elements like road salt.

Customers will find that one of the main advantages of polyaspartic coating is evident from virtually the moment installation begins ? it boasts a rapid turnaround time. This is why Showroom Coatings can confirm customers will have full use of their garages in a couple of days. Polyaspartic coating is often compared to epoxy coating, which was once considered the best material on the market. Epoxy, however, takes several days to dry, and Showroom Coatings adds that polyaspartic coating is still considered the most durable option.

As such, homeowners who cannot afford to lose the use of their garage for too long will find it much more convenient to use polyaspartic flooring for their next upgrade. It will be dry fairly quickly after installation, and ready to use much faster than other options. See more here: Showroom Coatings Epoxy Floor Service Yorkville.
