December 23, 2015 -
Uploria Pet World, a business in Durham, United Kingdom, is proud to announce that they have added the dog pet bed to their inventory. As a small family business in Durham in the North East of England, the company has been committed to providing superior quality products to pet owners and their trusted companions for years. They ensure any item they stock has an added benefit to pets, and they believe their new luxury dog bed perfectly fits that bill.

"Dogs are our most trusted companion and we treat them as the members of the family that they actually are," says Carol Cole from Uploria Pet World. "This means we want them to be comfortable and warm as well. Our new luxury dog bed is designed to give a dog true comfort, while being stylish at the same time."

The new product comes in five different sizes, which also makes it the perfect large dog bed. It is made of a high density foam that is fire retardant. It is also fully machine washable. It has removable cushions which make it easy to quickly freshen up the bed, which is both practical and comfortable. The base cushion is double sided, which means it can be reversed as well.

While the bed has only recently been released, it is already receiving many positive reviews. "5 star customer service my labrador loves his luxury dog bed," says Sheila I. "Labradors are notorious for believing that they are lapdogs and keeping mine off my couch is virtually impossible. However, this luxury dog bed really changed it all. Suddenly, my lap and couch aren't good enough for Amber. In fact, I have had to buy an extra one so she can sleep both in the living room and the kitchen."

The company has also released a YouTube video through https://youtu.be/MyZkNPqmqBE. This video highlights details about the luxury pet bed and why it is so important for dogs as well. For Uploria Pet World, giving a pet the ability to sleep comfortably is a true expression of love, and the dog will likely love pet owners in return.
