FlowersUSSR, the first US-based company specializing in flowers delivery to Russia, Ukraine and other countries of former Soviet Union announced the launch of a completely new website ? www.flowersussr.com.

Founded back in 2000, FlowersUSSR saw its vision in providing Russian-speaking immigrants a way to connect with their loved ones back home by sending flowers and gifts. With the growth of mail order brides from Russia and Ukraine in early 2000, the company service of international flowers delivery became highly sought after by American men trying to find their love abroad.

After 15 years of operation with what was becoming an outdated website, FlowersUSSR launched a completely new website in the fall of 2015. "It took us almost a year of working back and forth with the designers and programmers to finally create the website that would fulfill our vision as well as demands of today's market," Dennis Bartko, operational manager of FlowersUSSR reported.

The new design makes the website more user-friendly and appealing to the eye.

To search by category, choose a country and a city from the search drop down hybrid menu. It is straight-forward and easy process of how to order flowers to Russia or other listed countries. The new website is now much more convenient for customers. The FlowersUSSR website has both Russian and English versions and in addition to flower delivery to the countries of CIS, they offer delivery to the USA and Canada for their Russian-speaking clientele from Russia and Ukraine. A renewed catalog boasts a broad variety of flowers arrangement to all tastes, budgets and occasions.

A completely new section called Pictures of Delivery allows customers to browse through the beautiful bouquets, flowers arrangements and gift baskets delivered to the recipients in various cities of Russia, Ukraine, Belarus, Moldova, etc. The review section allows prospect customers to see what other think of the service the company provides.

The website also has its own blog in English and Russian providing cultural information in regards to flowers delivery to Russia, USA, local holidays, and traditions.

With so many new features, a few things remain the same. The main thing that did not change is the company's vision as well as its mission to provide affordable flowers delivery to Russia, Ukraine, Belarus, Moldova and other countries of former USSR. The prices listed in the catalog are final prices with no extra fees, no delivery fee being added in the process of checking out. The name of the company and their website also stayed the same ? www.flowersussr.com although USSR has ceased to exist and the many might not even know nowadays what USSR stands for.

With all the changes the website went through, to order flowers and gifts delivery to Russia and other countries today is a matter of just a few clicks.
