January 29, 2024 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Ana Turbides, based in New York, recently joined Resilient Film Studios LLC, an independent film production company that is rapidly growing into one of the top names in the business. She is one of many talented writers, directors and producers who have chosen to join Resilient Film Studios LLC in order to share their talent with the world. As the film company continues to grow, Ana Turbides and dozens of other talented creatives stand to see themselves become part of the next generation of renowned film-makers.

The Ana Turbides bio states, "Bostonian Born and raised, Ana Turbides currently lives in Buffalo, NY. Her ultimate dream has always been to be in the film industry. She began writing a very descriptive piece in school at the age of 12 that her teacher really enjoyed. She found her writing to be so compelling, that she suggested Ana write a book, and the rest is history! Wanting an even bigger vision to share with the world, she began to adapt her book into a screenplay, and has spent years turning it into an amazing Sci-Fi franchise!?"

It adds, "Her love of superheroes as a kid, growing up watching movies like X-Men, Spider-Man and the Fantastic Four fed her own imagination, which has now created an ever expanding, fantastic, cinematic universe, in the form of her six superhero siblings, known as THE SUPERIOR SIX! And she's ready to take the world by storm with it, as she knows audiences and critics alike will not only love the franchise but relate to these heroes in their humanizing aspects."

She's recently attached an acclaimed director, Colten Dietz, and SAG actors, Kuno Becker, Sardia Robinson, and Greek actor Yorgos Chraniotis. Her script is set to go with a slowly growing crew and she is lining up interviews on several international podcast channels and TV and web radio shows.

RFS is rapidly becoming one of the most recognizable entities in the world of independent film. Creativity, talent and diversity are the three pillars on which the company's approach to filmmaking is built, and they are constantly looking to empower talented domestic and foreign filmmakers, by providing them with better access to the resources they need to make quality films. RFS already has a number of recognizable names under their wing, and is always interested in adding more.

The film company's values can be summed up in this acronym: CREATE. They seek to Create unique, memorable films that are thought-provoking and challenge audiences in a variety of ways, and they actively seek out opportunities for collaboration. This means reaching out to big names in the industry in order to facilitate mutually beneficial partnerships.

Similarly, they wish to Explore avenues for funding a project, and the E refers to the company's commitment to helping filmmakers share their vision. Budding filmmakers often find that the eternal search for funding is what holds them back, and RFS aims to shoulder this responsibility on their behalf.

Building on this, the studio believes that Art and design production abilities, help elevate projects while the company's teaser reels help filmmakers reach out to audiences more easily. Finally, RFS makes it a point to ensure that every one of their film makers Enjoys their experiences working with the team at large, no matter the scope or reach of their project.

RFS has been part of the production of several great independent films. There are also countless projects currently underway ? Resilient Film Studios's talented writers, producers and directors are always working together to create compelling works of cinematic art.

One of the films currently in production at RFS is "Confessions," a thought-provoking film about redemption that features a number of complex themes. The film's summary reads, "After committing a sin in heaven, an angel (a former Spanish conquistador) is banished, and he must roam the earth until fulfilling his penance, which is to compel sinners to carry out a penance of their own ? to right their wrongs and cleanse their souls. The fallen angel has been earthbound for 500 years, attempting to get back to heaven to reunite with his wife. Initially, he contacts sinners by using the one thing they all possess: a phone.?

RFS is immensely proud of all the work that their team has been privileged to be a part of. The independent film company would like to invite film enthusiasts everywhere to join them on their journey toward becoming a top global film production company.
