

Orange CA Lawyer Alexander Napolin Discusses The Protections California Law Affords Rideshare Accident Victims

February 06, 2024

Orange, California - February 06, 2024 -
Uber accident lawyer Alexander D. Napolin is helping rideshare accident victims get fully compensated for their pain and suffering.

App-based deliveries and ridesharing exploded onto the market in the 2010s and have since become the preferred method of transportation for a significant portion of Americans. To give context to their massive scale, from 2020 to 2021, about 1.37 million drivers performed at least one ride or delivery on DoorDash, Instacart, Lyft, or Uber. While they are lauded for their convenience and affordability, their massive popularity has also led to an increase in the number of vehicles on the road which has increased the risk of accidents for those using these services.

?There are certain risks that are inherent to the rideshare model,? says Alexander Napolin. ?For example, rideshare drivers are often constantly distracted by their phones, often juggling multiple of these apps, looking for gigs they can complete near them. Another safety concern is speeding as the rides have to be completed within a limited time. There is also pressure to complete rides quickly to maximize one?s time working. All these behaviors are a likely cause for reckless driving. Drivers for ridesharing apps also work long hours and are prone to fatigue which impairs their judgement and reaction time. Finally, continuous use of the vehicle is also likely to degrade it faster requiring constant maintenance that might be getting overlooked.?

Alexander Napolin accident injury lawyer also highlights the many protections afforded by California law to protect rideshare users, as well as drivers, from the aforementioned risks. The coverage is broken down by periods, each representing the different stages of the process. Period 1 is when the driver has opened the app and is actively looking for customers. Period 2 is when the driver has booked a client and is on the way to their location. Finally, Period 3 is when the passenger has entered the vehicle, and it is on its way to the destination.

California provides a $1 million aggregate bodily harm liability policy to the passengers and the driver who have been in a collision with an uninsured/underinsured motorist or for hit-and-run cases during Period 3. In a livestream on his Facebook page, Alexander shows how rideshare users can find out about the insurance limits available to them by visiting Uber?s website and viewing the documentation based on the state they are based in.

?If you have been in a rideshare auto accident,? says Alexander Napolin, ?there are some crucial steps that you need to take immediately. This includes documenting the incident, seeking medical attention, and reporting the accident to the relevant authorities. This will give attorneys who represent you a leg up in building a strong case to get you the full compensation that you are owed. Our analysis takes into consideration everything from the driver?s actions to the vehicle?s condition and adherence to traffic laws. With the right attorney in your corner, you can expect a healthy settlement or verdict that provides you with all the money you need for medical expenses, lost wages, and your pain and suffering.?

Alexander Napolin has received several 5-star reviews from clients across Orange County thanking him and his law firm for their support during a time of intense emotional stress and apprehension. A recent review says, ?Mr. Napolin is the most honest and straightforward attorney I have ever worked with. He gave me the best advice and if I ever needed anything he was always available for me. I highly recommend anyone who has been in an auto accident of any kind or with any worker's compensation/work injury in Orange County to give him a call and seek his legal advice, so you can have the same experiences as I have had! He has the best character and I trust his judgement.?
