Jazz Singer Sarah James Sings Sweet Georgia Brown, Reviving 1920s Classics

February 11, 2024

February 11, 2024 -
Sarah James, a notable jazz singer, musician, and entrepreneur, has recently shared an exciting new video where she performs two classic songs from the 1920s, "Sweet Georgia Brown" and "Makin' Whoopee." This new release is prominently featured on her website and various social media channels, highlighting James' effort to explore and revive these classic tracks. Her initiative is a testament to her dedication to preserving the rich legacy of jazz music, a commitment that spans across her multifaceted artistic endeavors, including music, poetry, photography, aromatherapy products, and a blog where she shares insights into her creative process. For those interested in exploring the full range of Sarah's artistic expressions, from her music and poetry to her unique aromatherapy products, her website https://www.sarahjames.com offers a comprehensive look.

The video stands as a lively homage to the role of women in jazz, inviting viewers to experience the playful, spirited essence of the 1920s. James' interpretations aim to transport the audience back to the extravagant and culturally rich era renowned for its innovative musical expressions. Additionally, alongside the video, James provides context and background on "Sweet Georgia Brown" and "Makin' Whoopee," offering insight into the composers and lyricists who crafted the Jazz Age's soundtrack.

Reflecting on the video and her motivations, Sarah James stated, "Bringing these songs back to life goes beyond revisiting the past; it's about connecting with the timeless spirit and joy encapsulated in this music. Jazz uniquely transcends time and conflict, bringing moments of levity and beauty amidst chaotic global events. It's my tribute to the extraordinary women and men who laid the foundations for artists like me."

James' commitment to rediscovering and presenting jazz classics is integral to her broader mission of making the jazz genre accessible to new audiences while respecting its historical roots. Her diverse artistic ventures, which include an online store and an aromatherapy line, aim to offer a multisensorial experience to her audience. Through her website, she aspires to connect the past with the present, encouraging listeners to dive into the rich world of jazz music.

The video, available on her website and promoted on her social media platforms, such as provides an intimate look into James' artistic process and her rendition of these beloved songs. Navigating the complex landscape of jazz history, Sarah James remains an influential figure in the modern jazz scene, actively promoting a renewed appreciation for the genre. Her social media engagement can be viewed at https://www.facebook.com/sarahjamesjazz/ and https://www.instagram.com/sarahjamesjazz/, where she regularly shares updates and behind-the-scenes content.

James concluded, "By sharing these songs and their histories, I aim to spark curiosity and joy in those unfamiliar with jazz. It's an exploration through time, emotion, and culture, and I'm honored to contribute. My ultimate goal is to sustain the vibrant legacy of jazz, ensuring it remains accessible and significant to contemporary audiences while honoring its profound heritage."

###

For more information about Sarah James Jazz, contact the company here:Sarah James JazzSarah James2017234762sarah@sarahjams.comPO Box 1217Hoboken, NJ 07030

Sarah James Jazz

Hello,

I am a Jazz Singer and Entrepreneur who creates music, poetry, apparel and home goods, photo cards, paints, creates videos, and lives in the Hudson Valley, NY.

Website: http://www.sarahjames.com

Email: sarah@sarahjams.com

Phone: 2017234762