December 22, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

One of the leading rubbish removal companies of London, Vonvil Junk Ltd., has been providing their expert rubbish removal services for domestic and commercial waste clearance. Accredited by SAFE contractors and CHAS, the company has become an established name in the niche. Adding another jewel to their crown, the company celebrates a highly successful year in 2015 as they were hired for the clearance work at Wimbledon Championship Dinner Party and 2015 Heineken Rugby World Cup Launch.

Talking about the events and the successful year 2015, the company representatives said that the Vonvil Junk has always been a name that people reliably counted on for waste removal services. "We are best at what we do and that is the reason we got opportunities to provide our clearance services at some of the biggest events of the year," they said.

Reportedly, Vonvil Junk has served at the prestigious Wimbledon Championship Dinner Party, which was held on 12th July at Guildhall. The company's services were hired for the event's night clearance. Another big gathering that the company served at was the 2015 Heineken Rugby World Cup Launch and the company did the night waste clearance for the whole event. Along with this, the company has been serving regularly at the Kensington Palace events.

The company representatives said that the company makes sure to make the place eco-friendly and reuses and recycles up to 80% of the waste. Their other services include residential waste disposal, refurbishment and bulky collection, void property clearance and much more. Being involved in the CSR activities company recycles much of their clearance and donates all reusable items to charity.

The award-winning rubbish clearance company, which is also certified to ISO 9001:2008 and ISO 14001:2004 for quality and environment management systems, has been working towards complete customer satisfaction. Crediting the team of expert cleaners and their expert work, many clients credit the company for doing a great job so far and a successful year of 2015 has been a cause for celebration for the leading rubbish removal company of London.
