They were referred by a friend and neighbor, and they made the entire process smooth from start to finish. They provided me with a very straightforward bid that included several different options and it was in line with or lower than other competitors. They worked closely with my insurance company and took a lot of the burden off me. Roof Royale even went the extra mile and found a great subcontractor to handle repairing my hail-damaged windows. I have already recommended them to other family and friends."
