Pensacola, FL ? Injector Coach Institute, an aesthetic injector academy started by Mind, Body, & Soul Medical Aesthetics & Wellness founder and the namesake injector coach Marlee Bruno M.M.S., PA-C, CMLC, marked their first course of 2024 completed with a Fundamentals Injector Course training occurring on January 13 and 14. With the success of the initial training, Bruno and Injector Coach Institute are making a mark on the medical aesthetic practitioner training industry, with their hands-on approach and commitment to upholding student accountability while uplifting success. Injector Coach Institute courses are followed up three weeks after occurring with Bruno holding sessions to discuss student experiences in the real world following their training.

?It is such a delight to see a brand-new injector's confidence increase right before our eyes,? said Bruno. ?Medical aesthetics is a highly technical and challenging industry. To know my new colleagues are equipped with incredible technique, lots of practice, and the highest standards of safety makes all of us more confident."

The philosophy behind Injector Coach Institute, highly influenced by the injector coach herself, strongly draws upon the importance of experience and technique to ensure success and safety. The school has been distinguishing itself from other instructor courses by offering the chance to use more products and giving each student ample time to become familiar with their use and application, as well as their dedication to continuing education and mentorship.

Bruno has over half a decade of experience as a master injector and founded Injector Coach Institute with a mission of improving the aesthetics industry as a whole by upholding the highest standards for injectors. She regularly keeps in touch with graduates and former students, discussing their questions, wins, and challenges in her post-course sessions.

The Fundamental Injector Course is held multiple times a year and is designed to teach students how to run a successful medical spa from the moment they begin. Students learn how to inject upper face neuromodulators, such as XEOMIN for glabellar lines, as well as perform services like lip flips and fillers for the cheeks and lips. The amount of product available and live models enable students to successfully simulate a real-world environment and create equivalent results under Bruno's tutelage. This also ensures that students are confident to address the facial anatomy of any patient, something essential in an industry as diverse and broadly appealing as medical aesthetics. Other courses at Injector Coach Institute cover more specialty services, like biostimulators and facial balancing.

"Hearing our students' success stories in the field is so heartening," continued Bruno. "It makes our industry better for patients and practitioners alike when you're empowered with the knowledge that it takes to not only inject patients but create beautiful results in a safe manner. And I just love helping people take control of their businesses to really succeed and do their best!"

Upcoming courses at the professional injector training academy will focus on the lower face for advanced injectors, with Bruno utilizing expert help from injectors she herself has trained to outstanding outcomes. Bruno, a certified life coach; national speaker; and Key Opinion Leader for Mint PDO Threads and Merz Medical Aesthetics, also provides further business instruction, shadowing, and mentorship, as well as life coaching services through Injector Coach Institute to give students a sense of control in an industry that is constantly changing and developing.

Injector Coach Institute courses are open for enrollment to certified medical professionals looking to move into the aesthetic field.
