

Evolve Medical Associates Offers Trio of Treatments for Radiant Skin

Charlotte, North Carolina - February 15, 2024 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Charlotte, NC ? Evolve Medical Associates has announced their new plan to further optimize the skin rejuvenation services they offer to patients. The practice is promoting three advanced technologies to help patients achieve their goals: bioavailable substances, radiofrequency microneedling, and phototherapy with broadband light. The devices used include Sylfirm X RF microneedling paired with exosomes and Sciton BroadBand Light (BBL). With these therapies, Evolve hopes to help patients in the area discover the power of their body's own healing capacity.

"When it comes to achieving vibrant, rejuvenated skin, I've found that the combination of Sciton BBL, Sylfirm X RF Microneedling, and exosomes offers extraordinary results," said Donald Sudy, M.D., owner and founder of Evolve. "This dynamic trio provides targeted treatment for various skin concerns, stimulates collagen production, amplifies the healing process, and delivers long-lasting results. I am constantly amazed at the kinds of transformations we've seen when using these treatments for our patients who are on the quest for beautiful, youthful skin."

Each treatment modality functions differently. Sciton BBL uses different wavelengths of broad-spectrum light energy to penetrate through layers of the skin, targeting problem areas of hyperpigmentation, dark and age spots, vascular lesions, acne, and more, while at the same time stimulating general collagen production within the body. Collagen and elastin are essential proteins responsible for providing skin its firmness and bounce, but their production diminishes as we age. Sciton BBL helps clear skin up as the operators of the device can use different wavelengths to target and treat various skin concerns.

The second step in the triad process is to amplify results with Sylfirm X RF microneedling. Radiofrequency energy penetrates the deepest layers of the skin, stimulating the production of collagen and elastin. Microneedling, with its tiny lacerations that trigger the body's healing process, further promotes collagen synthesis for Sylfirm X's signature tightening effect while diminishing lines, wrinkles, and scarring. The body's natural healing response, further spurred on by heat energy, leads to firmer and more resilient skin that continues to regenerate.

This regeneration effect is strengthened with the addition of exosomes. Exosomes carry cellular information, and are highly concentrated in cytokines, growth factors, and other regenerative molecules that enable and enhance cellular function. Newer on the market in aesthetics, Evolve uses exosomes topically, either during a session of RF microneedling or after, which allows them to accelerate healing and promote skin cell turnover. This further improves patients' complexion with smoother skin texture and increasingly efficient collagen and elastin production.

The synergy of the three treatments is Evolve's main focus and what makes the trio so appealing to patients. The idea is that the BBL treatment prepares the skin and targets pigmentation, such as age spots, dark spots, melasma, and hyperpigmentation, while also triggering the body's natural healing processes. The Sylfirm X RF microneedling further promotes collagen and elastin production while manually tightening the skin as is typical of controlled injury devices. Exosomes then enhance and heal the effects of the previous treatment with their direct dose of nutrition to the deeper layers of the skin. The trio provide immediate and long-term results that improve radiance, tone, texture, visible signs of aging, and support skin health.

Evolve Medical Associates is currently open and taking appointments for new and existing patients.

About Evolve Medical Associates

Evolve Medical Associates is a single-location medical spa and wellness center founded by Dr. Don Sudy in 2005, a former emergency medicine physician in the Air Force. He founded Evolve with the aim of taking a wellness-based approach that treats healthcare proactively rather than reactively. Evolve creates natural outcomes for patients who are conscious about their personal health, offering quality cosmetic dermatology services based upon individual patient needs and goals among other services like bioidentical hormone replacement therapy. Their approach centers on patient education, while generally focusing on individualized treatment plans in an easy-going environment that puts patients at ease.
