Sanpete County-based, family-owned business, Clean Cut Roofing & Siding, has been dedicated to providing reliable and cost-effective roofing and siding solutions for over two decades. The company has long been committed to delivering exceptional quality, a truth that recently helped it earn certification as a Malarkey Emerald Premium Contractor. This prestigious recognition sets a new industry standard for steel roofing within Utah, positioning the company as a front-runner in this specialist market.

The Malarkey certification is more than just an achievement or badge of distinction. It enhances the company's offerings, allowing them to offer customers a non-prorated material warranty and an exceptional 25-year workmanship warranty on every shingle re-roof using Malarkey Roofing Products. This demonstrates their unwavering commitment to quality and provides customers with the added security of an extended warranty, reassuring them that they are making a prudent, safe investment in their roofing needs.

Clean Cut Roofing & Siding is no newcomer to the domain of steel roofing in Utah, an area where they have carved out a formidable reputation as a leader. Inresponse to the news of the certification, Vern Akauola, the CEO of Clean Cut Roofing & Siding, said, "This is a testament to our continual commitment to offer the highest-quality roofing products and installation services in Utah. We are especially proud of our work in steel roofing Utah projects. As a Malarkey Emerald Premium Contractor, we can add even more value to our customers."

The company's array of services extends beyond just roofing and includes the installation, repair, and inspection of asphalt shingle roofs, metal roofing services, and commercial flat roofing. Their adaptable skill set, honed over years of experience, is specifically tailored to fulfill the needs of both residential and commercial projects, taking into account all their requirements, right from new constructions, renovations to repairs.

"We?ve observed a growing preference for steel roofing among Utah residents. We make it a point to adapt to these changes, ensuring we are offering options that align with our customers' needs ? durable, stylish, and energy-efficient roofing," notes Akauola, addressing the importance of staying abreast of the emerging trends in the industry.

In addition to roofing solutions, Clean Cut Roofing & Siding extends its services to encompass the installation and repair of siding, providing customers a comprehensive suite of solutions for home protection. Free estimates for siding installations are provided to assist customers in planning and budgeting their projects effectively, ensuring they are aware of all the costs and can confidently make informed decisions.

Reflecting on their journey, Akauola shares, "Starting from humble beginnings, we have grown into one of the leading providers of steel roofing in the Utah region. As we continue growing, we remain unwavering in our objective ? to provide the best possible solutions for any residential or commercial roofing need."
