December 23, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Soulsticewellness.com, the leading providers in the country for Peri-Operative Therapy, Injury & Accident Therapy, as well as Health Maintenance Therapy, has recently announced getting the top Google maps listing for their term "Medical Massage Denver." They are pleased with the result, as it gives them more online visibility to potential customers.

Massage Therapy has been known to have a wealth of health advantages for people who are stressed and/or have experienced any form of bodily injury. It provides relief from muscle tension and induces overall relaxation. Over the years, studies have shown that there are cumulative benefits of Massage Therapy for surgical patients during the treatment of chronic illnesses and also in rehabilitation.

Now that they have taken on the term "Medical Massage Denver", the experts and staff at SoulsticeWellness.com seeks to offer their massage therapy services throughout the Denver area. Their team of therapists has many years of experience working with physicians in massage therapy. They provide a unique, hands-on system of care that highlights educating, monitoring, and supporting surgical patients throughout their entire recovery process.

Founded by Ann Brooks and Kent Lemburg in 2004, Soulstice aims to bring a broad range of highly skilled medical therapy services to people who are undergoing surgery and/or who are suffering from chronic pain caused by injury. Treatment is done either pre or post surgery to facilitate faster healing. They specialize in Peri-Operative Therapy, which integrates gentle and manual techniques during surgery that helps promote healing, lessens pain, and reduces recovery time. Further treatment is performed 24 to 48 hours after surgery to encourage even faster healing. Many clients who have received their medical therapy services have seen immediate results and dramatically reduced healing time.

As the leading specialist in Pre-Operative Therapy Denver, Soulsticewellness.com's massage therapy services have been known to lessen depression, improve sleep and circulation, and assist the body in repairing itself.

For local residents interested in a massage therapy treatment plan, Soulsticewellness.com's experienced therapists can create an individualized plan that can fit not only their needs, but their lifestyle as well. Interested individuals may get in touch with them through their website or contact them through the details provided below.
