Richardson, TX - March 11, 2024 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Go Industries Inc., a renowned provider of products and services for trucks, law enforcement, and custom manufacturing, has announced an addition to their product line. The company now offers dually mud flaps designed specifically for dually trucks with dual rear wheels on each side. Since its founding in 1978, Go Industries has earned a solid reputation for delivering first-rate accessories, consistently demonstrating a dedication to improving the safety and functionality of automotive vehicles.

The new dually mud flaps are meticulously constructed from non-recycled rubber, a material known for its enduring durability. Go Industries' commitment to high-quality standards is evident in the design and manufacturing process of these mudflaps for trucks. They feature easy installation with basic tools and minimum mechanical knowledge is required, making these products exceptionally user-friendly. The installation procedure is straightforward and can typically be completed in less than an hour.

"One of our goals with the introduction of the dually mud flaps in our product range is to provide complete solutions for every category of trucks," stated a representative from Go Industries. "Like all our other products, these mud flaps are not merely a convenience but a necessity. They not only protect the truck from debris, but also ensure the safety of vehicles driving behind it, making them an essential safety tool."

In addition to truck accessories, Go Industries also provides specialized equipment for law enforcement vehicles and bespoke manufacturing services. Their law enforcement products help enhance functionality and safety for Chevrolet, Dodge, and Ford vehicles and include skid plates designed to shield vehicles during off-road drives or in tough conditions.

The company's custom manufacturing services provide customers with uniquely tailored solutions intended to meet specific requirements. Go Industries invites customers to request a quote for their individual requirements through the company's official website.

Moreover, the company goes the extra mile for its customers by providing various resources including product instructions, posts, a product catalog, warranty information, instructional videos, and more. This dedication to serving their customers effectively has earned Go Industries the esteemed Platinum Status from SEMA, a testament to their superior level of service and product quality.

"Go Industries Inc. remains unwaveringly dedicated to manufacturing quality products that live up to high demands," the Go Industries representative added. "Be it truck drivers, law enforcement officers, or custom manufacturing clients, we ensure that our products and services do more than just meet requirements. Our new dually mud flaps are a perfect embodiment of that commitment."

Go Industries continues to innovate within their product range, using the feedback of their customers to enhance their offerings and services. Their recent advancement in truck mud flaps serves as an illustration of the company's ongoing commitment to customer satisfaction and their digital presence. Customers interested in the new mudflaps for trucks and other offerings are welcome to visit the official Go Industries website for more details or directly contact their customer support team.
