Wilmington, NC ? The owner of Mr. Rooter Wilmington and Brunswick County is excited to announce the upcoming meeting of the local Wilmington chapter of the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Contractors Association (PHCC) of North Carolina. The meeting is set to take place at Highwire Brewing, located at 1020 Princess St., Wilmington, NC 28401, on April 17th at 6:30 PM.

The PHCC Association of North Carolina is deeply committed to serving its member contractors and the citizens of North Carolina. With initiatives that focus on industry advancements and professional education, the association sees it as its duty to foster growth and ensure the safety of communities throughout the state. Each local chapter sets out to be a unified voice for all plumbing, heating, and cooling contractors in their areas. The organization advocates for the interests of North Carolina contractors and aims to address pertinent issues.

The Wilmington Chapter of PHCC is led by the owner of Mr. Rooter Plumbing of Wilmington and Brunswick

County, Mark Gonzales. He first decided to establish the chapter after becoming a board member of the association and realizing that his own community needed representation. As a licensed plumber with many years of experience, his goal was to find a way to give back to the industry and help others with their plumbing careers. Since starting the chapter in 2022, he's been continually working to educate other contractors and represent the work that PHCC is dedicated to doing.

"It's time for another meeting, and I'm excited to see what the turnout will be at this one. It would be awesome if we saw some new faces," said Gonzales about the upcoming meeting. "Any licensed contractor is welcome to join, and we hope to add some new members to our local PHCC chapter."

In his role as the owner of Mr. Rooter Plumbing of Wilmington and Brunswick County, Gonzales shows a further commitment to excellence in serving his community. He and his team are proud to offer a wide range of top-notch plumbing services at competitive rates. Among their specialties include drain cleaning, plumbing repairs, sewer line repairs, and septic system installations. They also offer bathroom and kitchen remodeling services. Most of these services are available to both residential and commercial buildings.

On top of the array of repairs and installations offered, Mr. Rooter of Wilmington and Brunswick County is happy to provide the community with 24-hour emergency plumbing services. They understand that a plumbing emergency can happen at any time. Gonzales and his technicians are available to diagnose problems and take immediate action around the clock. Whether it's a burst pipe, a serious clog, or flooding, they will provide a solution and resolve the issue.

Gonzales extends his invitation to join the upcoming PHCC Wilmington chapter meeting to all industry professionals in the community. He emphasizes his dedication to fostering a supportive and inclusive environment where contractors from all backgrounds can get together, collaborate, and grow. His hope is to give dedicated professionals an opportunity to exchange ideas and inspire each other to keep striving to make their community a safer place. Gonzales is also looking forward to meeting other industry locals to help him lead the group and be a driving force for positive change and innovation in Wilmington and beyond.
