"Recognising the distinct nature of each client's needs, we meticulously match our live-in caregivers with clients, ensuring shared interests and hobbies," Alan Barr, a representative from Home Instead Home Care Lanark, shared. "This fosters a harmonious living environment and strengthens the bond between our clients and caregivers, forming the cornerstone of our personalised care philosophy."

"We are proud to expand our live-in care services and reduce waiting times for new clients. It marks a crucial step forward in our mission to offer personalised, high-quality care to more individuals and families in need," Barr remarked.
