After someone is involved in a violent crime there are often reminders of the incident that would be best dealt with before any attempts are made to re-enter the environment. Blood, waste and other Bio-hazardous materials need to be removed and the area must be sanitized thoroughly to ensure that no possibility of further illness, or damage can occur.

Scene Care vehicles are designed to carry the latest crime scene cleaning equipment in order to arrive with one, self contained, workshop that can clean and sanitize any type of unfortunate trauma. The service specialist arrive in non-distinguishable attire that won't attract further attention to the scene, so family member can go about their lives without the added distraction of uninvolved parties.

Once the team has thoroughly prepared the scene for re-entry, family and surviving victims will be able to move back in without the fear of encountering any painful reminders of the traumatic event.
