Expanded Team of Emergency Water Damage Contractors to Bolster Dry Star Restoration's Community Support in Arizona

September 23, 2024

Mesa, Arizona - September 23, 2024 -
Drystar Restoration & Construction, based in Arizona, has announced that it?s expanding its team of emergency water damage contractors to better serve the local community. Since 2012, this company has been fully licensed, bonded, and insured, offering a wide range of restoration and construction services.

Due to a rising need for emergency water damage contractors in Phoenix and nearby areas, Drystar Restoration decided to grow its team. This expansion aims to provide faster and more efficient responses during water crises. The company is committed to customer service and to getting properties back to their original state as soon as possible.

"Expanding our team allows us to respond more promptly to emergency situations," said Richard Appel, a representative of Drystar Restoration & Construction. "Water damage can escalate quickly, and a swift response is crucial to minimize losses and avoid further complications. Our enhanced team will ensure that we are always ready to assist our clients when they need us most."

Drystar Restoration deals with various types of water damage, including those from leaking pipes, overflowing appliances, and sump pump failures. They use advanced moisture detection tools to find affected areas and ensure thorough drying and repair. This careful method helps prevent more damage and supports a smooth restoration process.

Besides water restoration, Drystar Restoration offers many other important services for property recovery. These services include fire restoration, mold remediation, asbestos removal, storm repair, sewage cleanup, cleaning, flooring, and remodeling. Each service is meant to address specific issues property owners might face, providing complete support for various restoration needs.

To understand more about their comprehensive services like fire restoration, Drystar Restoration's website provides detailed insights including their approach to soot and smoke cleanup and structural repairs.

Fire restoration involves assessing damage, cleaning soot and smoke, and fixing structural harm. This process helps return properties to their pre-fire state and includes dealing with water or chemical damage from firefighting efforts.

Mold remediation is another vital service offered by Drystar Restoration. This service involves finding mold-affected areas, safely removing the mold, and treating the environment to prevent future growth. Proper mold remediation is essential for a healthy living space and preventing potential health hazards.

Asbestos removal by Drystar Restoration involves the safe removal and disposal of materials containing asbestos. Given the health risks associated with asbestos, this service is important for older buildings that may still contain this harmful material.

Drystar Restoration also fixes storm damage, dealing with issues caused by extreme weather like hurricanes, tornadoes, and heavy rains. They make sure properties are restored and strengthened against future weather events.

The company's sewage cleanup service focuses on the safe and hygienic removal of sewage. Drystar Restoration ensures that affected areas are thoroughly cleaned, deodorized, and sanitized to reduce health risks.

In addition to these key services, Drystar Restoration offers general cleaning, flooring installation and repair, and remodeling. These services help keep the looks and functionality of both homes and commercial properties, completing their wide range of offerings.

Appel also said, "We take pride in our versatility and the wide range of services we provide. Our aim is to be a one-stop solution for all restoration and construction needs, and the expansion of our emergency water damage contractors team is a significant step in this direction."

With this expansion, Drystar Restoration aims to keep up its reputation for prompt and professional service. Customers can expect quick responses to their emergencies, handled by a skilled team equipped with the right tools and expertise.
