Columbia, SC ? Brian Dressler, commercial photographer, is pleased to report that his business has been part of the American Society Of Media Photographers (ASMP) since 1984. The organization is designed to uphold and maintain the professional standards of its members. There are numerous photographers in Columbia, SC, but customers who are particularly interested in creative and eye-catching images, understand that Brian offers an experienced professional portfolio of work that displays the type of understanding of marketing which customers need.

ASMP is forward-leaning in helping members stay abreast of current developments of artistic technology. Workshops, seminars, and other educational opportunities are available to member media photographers.

According to customer Dennis J. Wiehl of The LPA Group, Inc, ?Quality photography of our completed projects is a very important tool that we use to develop new business and express ideas. Brian Dressler Photography is able to capture, in a very dramatic and professional fashion, the essence, character and significant features of these projects.?

Dressler has a high level of expertise and creative ability. He uses this proficiency to produce images which reflect the hidden essence of people, products, and locations. The goal is to ensure that business clients receive images which are suitable for showcasing, advertising and marketing campaigns. The highest technical proficiency is displayed in the detail, expertise and artistry which show in the finished product.

The ability to work with business clients, in order to identify the key elements of a marketing campaign and to come up with ideas which will portray those ideas in photographic images is where the services of Brian Dressler are best displayed. He takes the time to identify the business client's goals and ensure that the images he provides reflect those ideas.

For more than three decades, Brian has been providing exquisite images to tell the story of his clients. He is the recipient of a number of professional awards. With a portfolio which includes aerial photography, architectural photography and food photography, his work is capturing the interest of a growing number of clients in Columbia and in a larger audience. The portfolio also demonstrates his skills at industrial, marine and product photography, as well as black and white portraiture.

A collection of images from his work is available at <http://www.dresslerphoto.com>.
