Working expertly in the niche of sports goods providing high quality products, "Kasp Media" has gained a reputable name for itself. Adding on to the list of their unique sports and fitness goods, the company recently announced the launch of their new product - Kasp Exercise Gloves.

The importance of proper wrist support in sports and in all fitness workout sessions is well known to everyone. An improper wrist support makes the person prone to injuries. "Kasp Media" has worked on the issue and it has come up with a perfect solution for it in the form of its new product, Kasp Exercise Gloves. Equipped with the stretchable wrist support wraps, these gloves provide ample wrist support to the user thereby preventing any sort of injury. The company is making it available at a discounted price for its customers.

"Fitness routines are essential for a healthy body, but sometimes, in the absence of a proper wrist support, these routines may end up injuring the person. Men and women are both prone to such injuries. We wanted to help people avoid such injuries and our "Kasp Exercise Gloves" are a perfect fitness routine partner for our customers," said Philip Hewiston ? CEO Kasp Media.

The company experts said that their new product comes with durable integrated wrist wraps, which are made from the high quality material which gives it a long life. With adjustable Velcro strap, it provides ample wrist support and can be stretched for a perfect fit. Philip said that the gloves are specially designed to keep fingers opened so that both, men and women, could have complete finger freedom. It doesn't just help in free hand movement but also assists in making a strong grip. He added that the gloves, which are made of a stretchable lightweight material that comes with a thumb lock, enable perfect hand movement required for all such exercises.

Being sold in a pair, the discounted exercise gloves are said to be useful in preventing any rips and blisters during work-out. "We wish to make the work-out sessions completely safe for our clients and these Exercise Gloves are a step towards it," Philip said.
