Extreme Marketing Innovations LLC, a business in Phoenix, AZ, is proud to announce the launch of the next generation mobile punch cards. This is designed to be a new way to revolutionize and redefine a business. Despite being released only recently, the mobile punch cards are already proving to be popular.

"What our mobile punch card does is something that has never been seen before," says Evan Bustamante from Extreme Marketing Innovations LLC. "It is an opportunity for businesses to actually live within the smartphones of their customers. It helps them to increase customer loyalty, leading to customers who return again and again. It can also fully integrate with Beacon and GPS technology, which is the best loyalty experience that can be offered."

The company has released a number of statistics that show the importance of this type of solution. They state that 48% of shoppers determine whether or not they will be loyal to a company the very first time they shop there. Furthermore, they state that loyal customers provide 67% more revenue to businesses than first time shoppers. Finally, they state that just 15% of a business' customer base accounts for as much as 70% of their total sales. This demonstrates the importance of creating loyal customers.
