

BuyandSellPresentations.com Launches New Website for Business and Education Presentations

December 28, 2015

December 28, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

A new and innovative online resource, BuyandSellPresentations.com, has launched a new website for presenters/trainers, consultants, educators, and students aged 18+. The platform, designed to be safe and easy-to-use, will allow users to "Buy the presentations they need and sell the presentations they have" in the areas of business and education.

At this site, members can search and buy high-quality presentations on a wide array of topics, which the site says can save countless hours of preparation. Materials can be downloaded instantly via the integrated shopping platform and customized as needed.

Members can also set up their own virtual "MyStore" and sell their presentations and materials, earning additional income throughout the year. A variety of formats and materials may be uploaded for sale, including PowerPoint presentations, audience handouts, participant guides, excel charts, white papers, and more.

As the company officials said, "The business world is highly competitive and therefore, many companies are looking for ways to attract customers while keeping the existing ones satisfied. We feel companies can do that by successfully training salespeople to "grow new business" and "farm old business." Many of the materials at BuyandSellPresentations.com address these crucial sales skills in a quick and efficient manner."

Presenters and consultants who train educators have access to critical presentation topics such as differentiated instruction, reading strategies, Common Core, writing strategies, any many more. These are suitable to use for any audience, from small groups to conferences.

College students (age 18+) are also finding "BSP" a useful resource for not only earning income but locating targeted content for their own presentation assignments. These students need time to digest and complete required assignments. BSP members have uploaded content that can provide these students with presentations they can use as is or customize to support a diverse range of college subjects.

?If you have presentations to sell or need presentations, then BuyandSellPresentations.com is your first place to go. There are also many free presentations available for download and membership is free as well,? said company representatives.

About BSP

BuyandSellPresentations.com was developed based on the founders? combined 30+ years of experience in the education and business industries. After serving as teachers, presenters and business consultants across the United States, Pat & Pam clearly understand the need for presentations and those who use them. This interactive website offers ?use-it-tomorrow? presentations as well as an opportunity to build a personal business while interacting with a community of peers with similar interests via blogs and Q&A/comments.

It is with this background that Pat & Pam offer support to any and all presenters, trainers, consultants and college students in business and education so they can ?Buy the presentations they need and sell the presentations they have.? As a result, they can save themselves valuable time and earn additional income.

BSP allows the user to purchase presentations and materials and sell their own presentations all on one site using a real-time, seamless system for purchasing and selling.

Visit BuyandSellPresentations.com to explore more.

###

For more information about BuyandSellPresentations.com, contact the company here: BuyandSellPresentations.com Pat and Pam Terry (850) 524-2257 BuyandSellPresentations.com Cincinnati, OH

BuyandSellPresentations.com

Website: <https://www.buyandsellpresentations.com/>

Phone: (850) 524-2257

Powered by PressAdvantage.com