December 29, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Keller TX, 17-DECEMBER-2015 ? EyeSpySupply and Scott Young CEO, are pleased to announce that the firm, which offers a broad scope of surveillance and spy equipment, as well as security systems, has implemented a US-based technical support team available to answer questions about systems and their operation. With headquarters in Keller, their customer-base includes Fort Worth and Tarrant County. All major brands are carried in the online discount spy outlet.

For those who are not sure about the right spy or surveillance devices to pick, the team at EyeSpySupply say they have the knowledge and experience to answer questions and make suggestions. The experts at the web-based store will help customers determine what their actual requirements are and guide them in the selection of appropriate equipment. Some devices are important for professionals in the business while others are fun gadgets to play with.

The major categories of equipment available at EyeSpySupply include cameras and video surveillance, tracking devices, audio surveillance and phone and computer monitoring. The gadgets are powerful, yet easy to operate, according to the company. They can be installed by someone with minimal technical know-how, and having tech support based in the US, the company says, will give people the support they need in a clear manner.

There are many reasons why people might want to purchase items from the discount spy store, including tracking the activities of a cheating spouse, protecting children under the care of a nanny, checking for the safety of an elderly family member. Devices such as a GPS tracker might be helpful in keeping track of fleet vehicles, delivery trucks and other company owned autos and trucks.

According to Scott Young, ?Our top-tier quality standards enable us to offer lifetime support on the equipment we sell. We help you to find the exact equipment for your security and surveillance needs. We don't up-sell, but we work with you to make sure the equipment you choose is appropriate for your specific needs.?
