

WordPress Themes For Local Businesses Relunched

December 31, 2015

December 31, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Alchemy Digital Media, based in Fort Myers, FL, is proud to announce that they have re-opened their highly popular local business Pro WordPress themes. They have made significant improvements to these themes to make them more relevant to their clients. The news has been welcomed across the industry. People are encouraged to click here for further information.

Earl Gardner from Alchemy Digital Media says: "Our goal with ADM Local Business Pro was to build the most feature rich, local business WordPress theme on the market today. The features we've added weren't added just for the sake of having them, but were carefully thought through and custom designed to make sure they would fit into the online marketing plans of all local businesses where they can show real results and a real ROI on any online marketing campaigns that they undertake."

The second version of this theme comes with more niches. It also includes a built in plugin for telephone call tracking, as well as a customer feedback system. All sites will continue to come with pre-written content that is relevant to the niche of the customer. Additionally, all images included are commercially licensed. Put together, this means that those who choose this new theme will be able to have a running website within just 10 minutes of actually buying their website.

The company has also create a list of niches for which the new theme is available. These include plumbing, gardening, chiropractor clinics, emergency disaster repair, house cleaning, electrician services, HVAC repair, dental clinics, handymen, property management services, roofers, digital agencies, mobile mechanics, painters and decorators, and wedding planners. They offer individual licenses for each of these niches and also have packages in place for those who need multiple licenses.

The company has also released a YouTube video on the WordPress theme for local businesses. This video clearly explains the services that they offer and how people can benefit from these. Furthermore, it highlights the fact that businesses can contact Alchemy Digital Media for a free, no obligation quotation. The YouTube video is also an opportunity for people to get more information on the themes and more.
