Cortes Law Firm Offers Strategic Solutions to Avoid Probate in Midwest City, Oklahoma

May 27, 2024

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK - May 27, 2024 -
Cortes Law Firm, an esteemed entity in the realms of estate planning, probate law, and administration law based in Oklahoma, is thrilled to announce a pivotal initiative designed to support individuals in Midwest City, Oklahoma, through the probate process. Through their Midwest City Probate services, the firm underscores the critical nature of strategic planning and administration in estate management, aiming to adhere to the decedent's wishes while mitigating unnecessary delays and conflicts among potential heirs.

Navigating the probate process can prove to be a convoluted and time-consuming endeavor, frequently giving rise to disputes among heirs and complications in settling the estate's debts. Cortes Law Firm is committed to offering thorough support amidst these challenges through its specialized Cortes Law Firm Midwest City Probate services. Their method is tailormade to accommodate the distinct probate laws in Oklahoma, accentuating the essential role of judicial oversight in the allocation of assets and the transfer of real property to the rightful heirs in alignment with the deceased's final intentions.

Steve Cortes, the principal attorney at Cortes Law Firm, shed light on their methodology regarding probate law and estate planning, stating, "The best thing you can do is to simply plan. Then review your estate plan on a regular basis. I like to meet with our clients at least once a year to see if there have been any major changes in their life. Events that might not seem important to you, might be a red flag for your estate planning attorney."

Boasting over two decades of service, the firm's expertise encompasses estate planning, general counsel, and probate real estate. Beyond navigating clients through the Oklahoma Probate Procedure, emphasis is placed on the correct titling of assets and the periodic review of estate planning documents like trusts to circumvent probate.

"Keep your assets titled correctly to ensure that they will not go through probate. If you have a revocable living trust, make absolutely certain that it has been correctly funded. The biggest mistake people make is having a trust drafted, they sign it, and then forget about it. A Trust is a living document that must be reviewed on a regular basis," Steve Cortes elaborated further. For more information on their services, visit the Cortes Law Firm website.

Cortes Law Firm is renowned for its client-centric approach to estate planning, aspiring to cultivate enduring relationships with clients to precisely and effectively reflect their wishes in their estate plans. The firm is equipped to address an extensive range of estate planning and probate issues, from straightforward wills and powers of attorney to more intricate matters such as probate and trust administration, charitable trusts, and family limited partnerships.

By offering its Midwest City Probate services, Cortes Law Firm vehemently reaffirms its dedication to supporting families during trying periods. Its strategic counsel, combined with a comprehensive understanding of Oklahoma's probate statutes, lays the groundwork for a more seamless management and allocation of estates, adhering to the final desires of deceased Midwest City individuals.

Cortes Law Firm positions itself as a steadfast ally for individuals and families seeking probate and estate planning assistance in Midwest City, Oklahoma, ensuring that the probate process complies with legal stipulations and family expectations.
