The Marcus Institute Of Integrative Health, Philadelphia, PA, To Hold 5th Annual ?Advances In Mind-Body Medicine? Live Hybrid Conference

May 07, 2024

May 07, 2024 -
Philadelphia, PA?The Marcus Institute of Integrative Health and the Department of Integrative Medicine & Nutritional Sciences at Thomas Jefferson University, located in Philadelphia, PA, has opened registration for a highly anticipated CME event: the 5th annual Advances in Mind-Body Medicine conference scheduled for May 16-17, 2024. The two-day event will be held on Jefferson's Center City Philadelphia campus for in-person attendees, with live virtual attendance options also available.

?Our conference is a platform for advancing and transforming healthcare,? says Dr. Daniel Monti, founder of the Marcus Institute of Integrative Health and Chair of the Department of Integrative Medicine. ?When healthcare providers understand and apply the principles of mind-body medicine, we can revolutionize patient care and wellness.?

Advances in Mind-Body Medicine is led by Integrative Medicine experts and curated to help bridge gaps between traditional and integrative medicine practices for a comprehensive approach to patient-centered care. This year?s conference spotlights the latest in integrative health and features topics such as: The Gut-Brain Connection, Trauma and Stress in Mind-Body Medicine, Mindfulness-Based Interventions, Meditation & Spirituality?s Impact on the Brain, Advanced Mind-Body Strategies for Special Populations, and many more.

Participants will experience two days of immersive sessions and have the opportunity to explore innovative treatments and therapies that address the complexities of human health.

Licensed healthcare practitioners including physicians, psychologists, nurses, and other providers attending the conference can expect to enrich their practice with new insights and strategies that address both illness and wellness to reshape the future of healthcare for their patients. CME credits are available for healthcare providers and full-time students in healthcare disciplines.

The conference will take place on Thursday, May 16th and Friday, May 17th, 2024, from 8:15 am to 5:00 pm. To attend the conference in-person or virtually, use this link to register and to view the daily agendas. If those interested have any questions, please email IntegrativeMedEd@jefferson.edu for more information. Those who have registered will be emailed additional details about the conference as they become available.

About Marcus Institute of Integrative Health: The Marcus Institute of Integrative Health is part of the historic Department of Integrative Medicine & Nutritional Sciences at Thomas Jefferson University?s Sidney Kimmel Medical College. This is the first department of Integrative Medicine at a United States medical school, and it offers a wide range of academic programs, research trials, and clinical programs of excellence at its two locations, in Philadelphia and Villanova. Our integrative therapies combine the most advanced techniques and technologies with proven ancient health principles to identify and treat the root causes of what ails patients, allowing the body to heal and thrive. We perform extensive testing to understand the body on a cellular, molecular, and genetic level to yield optimal results for current health concerns and prevent future illness and disease.
