MOUNT PLEASANT, SC - May 29, 2024 -

Hockey Wealth Group has taken a significant step forward in bolstering its range of financial services aimed specifically at the hockey community. This enhancement comes through forming a strategic partnership with the globally recognized international money transfer service, OFX. This collaboration is poised to deliver substantial financial benefits for both current and former National Hockey League (NHL) players along with their families, addressing the complex issue of managing finances internationally. A key feature of this partnership is the offer of preferential exchange rates, therefore, potentially cutting the cost for its clients.

The partnership with OFX is the latest addition to its comprehensive suite of financial services provided by Hockey Wealth Group, which notably includes Retirement Planning for NHL Players. The company demonstrates an intricate understanding of the unique financial circumstances NHL athletes face, emphasizing the importance of strategic financial planning and management. This includes giving particular attention to elements beyond ordinary income and investment strategies, like managing cross-border financial activities. This benefit is complemented by 24/7 access to OFX?s dedicated live customer support, ensuring clients receive the help they need at any time.

Johann Kroll, the founder of Hockey Wealth Group, shared insights into the value of this partnership, stating, ?We had a number of players searching for better currency exchange options between the States and Canada. Also, with the number of guys that decide to finish their career while playing in Europe, we wanted to partner with a global leader in this space. In our continuous effort to meet the wide-ranging financial needs of the hockey community, partnering with OFX is a pivotal development. By making cross-border currency exchanges more economical and efficient, we're not merely saving our clients money; we're enhancing their financial security. This initiative aligns perfectly with our focus areas like Retirement Planning for NHL Players, promoting a comprehensive approach to financial health."

Besides this new partnership, Hockey Wealth Group specializes in developing customized financial plans tailored to the distinctive life cycle and career path of hockey professionals. This includes income planning during the transitional phase following retirement but before the pension benefits begin, building varied investment portfolios aimed at long-term wealth accumulation, strategic tax planning to reduce tax obligations, and addressing the complexities of the NHL Pension Plan.

Kroll further emphasized the company's objectives, asserting, "The challenge of managing finances as a professional athlete can be daunting. Our mission at Hockey Wealth Group is to streamline this process, allowing our clients to concentrate on their careers and loved ones." He highlighted that incorporating OFX?s currency exchange service into their offer not only enhances its value proposition but also strengthens their dedication to delivering a comprehensive financial planning and management service.
