

New York VOIP Unified Communications Provider Redesigns Website

January 04, 2016

January 04, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Stage 2 Networks, a VOIP provider in New York, NY, is happy to announce the launch of their redesigned website. They have also added a robust suite of cloud voice (VOIP) and connectivity solutions for business and call centers. Through the new site, they continue to offer their 5-star promise. The new website is now live and fully operational and includes extensive details about the company and its services.

Joe Gillette, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Stage 2 Networks says: "We absolutely love our new website. It is a much better reflection of our brand, who we are and what we stand for. We can't thank the team at Crossbow Studio enough and are very happy to see that our clients are already enjoying the website as well."

The company is known across their audience, which are mainly from the New York area, for their STELLAR approach. They are unique in this offering because of the experience of their team who, between them, have over 200 years of experience in the field of telecommunications and IP. As a result, they are able to offer each of their clients a communications solution that is perfect for them individually, with a reliable network. They have live, 24/7 help and what they call "the most dedicated team of voice experts in the universe."

The work they have completed has been positively received by their many clients. "Stage 2 Networks enables us to focus on the business we are in while providing a scalable, seamless and headache-free platform for our voice and data systems," says one technology officer. "We are very pleased with Stage 2's technology and can-do approach."

The company encourages businesses to visit their new website and get a feel for what is offered. There is also the opportunity to get a free quote. This quotation is completely no obligation and will give potential clients an idea of how their business could benefit from unified communications and VOIP services.
