Amazing Assets LLC, a business in Tampa, FL, is proud to announce their success with their premium Canvas Messenger Bag. This bag's design is based upon a classic military canvas messenger bag. However, it has been designed to meet modern day practical convenience requirements. The bag has many practical features that has made it a winner. This bag is already proving to be very popular and it is featured on Amazon. Customers are finding new uses for it every day, claiming its deep pockets and practical design makes it an incredible, overnight bag, business bag, tech bag, diaper bag, every day 'grab and go' bag and a useful computer or laptop bag.

Robert Kaplan from Amazing Assets LLC says: "Our new messenger computer bag looks absolutely fantastic. It makes use of a classical and popular design, but gives it a modern twist. We're so happy to see that people are already enjoying our bag and its many uses."

They have updated the classic army messenger bag design, adding features that instantly transform it into an practical computer bag. It features such things as a zippered top main compartment and many pockets to help organize business and personal items. In addition, it has a foam insert, which is designed to protect mobile devices, laptops and iPads.

This messenger bag is proving to be very popular. "I bought this for my husband and he loves it," says one happy customer. "It is very well made and has lot of pockets inside. He said that this is a lot more comfortable carrying than his swiss army back pack. I highly recommend this messenger bag. You will not be disappointed by the quality of it. It should last for a long time. The compartments are really great. You can put a lot of things in it."

The company prides itself on its quality products, and also on its outstanding customer service. They guarantee their customers' satisfaction in terms of both the product and the service itself. The bag currently also comes with a free accessories bag, which has proven to be equally popular.

For Amazing Assets LLC, the goal is to make sure people who lead an active, urban life style, are able to get up and go, and travel with practical and comfortable gear. Best of all, the bag is incredibly stylish as well, which sets it apart from many other laptop bags.
