Rochester, NY ? Whelpley & Paul has announced that it is celebrating 100 years of providing top-notch eye and vision services to the people of Rochester and its surrounding communities, including their home neighborhoods of Brighton, Fairport, Greece, and Webster. Whelpley & Paul began as a single-location practice in 1924, and the incredible services they provide their patients has led to strong community trust and a reputation for providing high-quality eye care.

Part of what has made it possible for the practice to expand and maintain a strong presence in the community is due to how adaptable their staff and services are. Their team continues to push the limits of their care, adopting the latest technology and staying atop current research to ensure their treatments deliver exceptional results.

?The staying power of our practice is rooted in our focus, which has always been ? and will continue to be ? the patients and their experience,? said staff optometrist Dr. Morgan Roehm, O.D. ?I am proud to be a part of a team that manages to maintain the impressive level of customer service that has made us such a trusted brand, yet has still kept up with the times.?

Whelpley & Paul have exceptional tech, which allows their staff to offer extremely advanced eye exams that they can adapt to the patient and provide standout diagnostic services for pediatrics, contact lenses, medical eye care, and specialty contacts. Additionally, they can offer uniquely personalized treatment plans for conditions such as dry eye, glaucoma, and more.

"Our range of services and community trust wasn't built overnight," said John Abbate, co-owner of Local Eye Doctor Group. "We make it a point to pay close attention to what people want and need, and the updates we make reflect that. What really makes Whelpley & Paul special are the doctors and staff. I have worked with a lot of teams in my life, but few can compare to the dedication and compassion I see in our offices. Patients have a history here, and they keep coming back because their parents have history with us, and their doctors know them on a first name basis."

Friendly, compassionate services that were grown to accommodate patient preferences and variety is a running theme with Whelpley & Paul. Their eyewear collection represents the trending and fashionable styles of western New York, as well as what the local clientele has traditionally desired. Their dry eye services have also expanded to include a wide range of excellent, high-tech options – both to satisfy demand and offer the kind of customized treatments necessary to treat everyone, because dry eye disease is a condition that can be caused by many different environmental, genetic, and lifestyle factors.

"Part of what has made Whelpley & Paul so successful is our team built our business around the patients, not the other way around," said Mr. Abbate. "That patient-forward approach to eye care is why we have been able to organically increase the number of locations we have to four, because our team followed what they saw on a daily basis. And as we've grown, we have been able to expand our effective tech-driven eye care model to help as many people as possible."

Whelpley & Paul is currently accepting new patients. People in western New York who would like to schedule an appointment should call (585) 443-8696.
