

Rosenow Customs Introduces Cutting-Edge DECRA Stone Coated Metal Roofing for Enhanced Durability and Energy Efficiency

June 11, 2024

NEENAH, WI - June 11, 2024 -
Green Bay, Wisconsin - Rosenow Customs, a leading exterior home remodeling company serving the Green Bay and Fox Cities regions of Wisconsin, is pleased to announce their certification as an installer of DECRA Stone Coated Metal Roofing. This innovative roofing solution offers homeowners and businesses unparalleled durability, energy efficiency, and aesthetic appeal, setting a new standard for roofing performance in the region.

As a certified DECRA Stone Coated Metal Roofing installer, Rosenow Customs is now equipped to provide customers with a cutting-edge roofing option that combines the strength of steel with the beauty of traditional roofing materials. DECRA's unique interlocking panel system and stone coating technology create a roof that is resistant to wind, hail, fire, and other extreme weather conditions, while also providing superior energy efficiency and noise reduction.

The demand for high-quality, long-lasting roofing solutions continues to grow as homeowners and businesses seek to protect their investments and reduce maintenance costs. With over 500,000 residents in the Green Bay and Fox Cities areas, Rosenow Customs estimates that a significant portion of the population could benefit from the advantages offered by DECRA Stone Coated Metal Roofing.

"We are thrilled to bring DECRA Stone Coated Metal Roofing to our customers," said Shane Rosenow, owner of Rosenow Customs. "As a company committed to delivering the best products and services, we believe that this innovative roofing solution will revolutionize the way people think about roofing. With its unmatched durability, energy efficiency, and aesthetic appeal, DECRA Stone Coated Metal Roofing is the perfect choice for those looking to enhance the value and protection of their properties."

The need for reliable roofing contractors arises whenever a home or business owner faces issues such as aging roofs, storm damage, or the desire to upgrade their property's appearance and value. In the Green Bay and Fox Cities regions, harsh winter conditions and severe weather events can take a toll on traditional roofing materials, making the need for a durable, long-lasting solution even more pressing.

By offering DECRA Stone Coated Metal Roofing, Rosenow Customs aims to address these concerns and provide numerous benefits to the local community, including:

1. Enhanced protection against severe weather: DECRA roofs are designed to withstand high winds, hail, and even fire, providing peace of mind for property owners in the face of extreme conditions.

2. Improved energy efficiency: DECRA's stone coating's reflective properties help reduce heat absorption, leading to lower cooling costs and a more comfortable indoor environment.

3. Reduced maintenance and longer lifespan: With its durable steel construction and resistant stone coating, DECRA roofs require minimal maintenance and can last up to 2-3 times longer than traditional asphalt shingles.

4. Boosted property value: The superior performance and attractive appearance of DECRA Stone Coated Metal Roofing can enhance a property's curb appeal and overall value.

In addition to the benefits of DECRA roofing, Rosenow Customs offers a comprehensive range of exterior home remodeling services, including siding and window installations. The company's team of skilled professionals is dedicated to delivering exceptional craftsmanship and customer service, ensuring that each project meets the highest standards of quality and exceeds customer expectations to learn more about this visit https://rosenowcustoms.com/roofing-contractor/

"At Rosenow Customs, our mission is to provide our customers with the best products, services, and experiences possible," said Rosenow. "With the introduction of DECRA Stone Coated Metal Roofing, we are taking another step forward in our commitment to innovation, quality, and customer satisfaction. We look forward to helping more homeowners and businesses in the Green Bay and Fox Cities areas achieve their dream exterior transformations."
