June 17, 2024

Olde West Chester, Ohio - June 17, 2024 - iShine Cincy recently completed a large concrete cleaning project in Cincinnati, Ohio's historic Clifton Gaslight District. This job involved cleaning over 10,000 square feet of sidewalk and removing over 2,000 pieces of gum and other debris. The project was notable not just for its size but also for its impact on the local community.

The Clifton Gaslight District is a well-known area filled with history and charm. With its old-fashioned streetlights and unique architecture, it attracts both residents and visitors. Keeping the district clean and appealing is important for maintaining its charm and supporting local businesses. iShine Cincy took on this project to enhance the area?s look and overall environment.

"The decision to focus on such a large-scale project in the Clifton Gaslight District was driven by our commitment to preserving and enhancing community spaces," said Jacob Gilbert, CEO of iShine Cincy. "Our team worked diligently to ensure the sidewalks were clean but safe and welcoming for everyone."

The team used advanced pressure washing technology and eco-friendly cleaning solutions for this project. This method effectively removes dirt, grime, gum, and other contaminants from concrete surfaces. Besides improving the look of the sidewalks, the cleaning also made them safer by reducing slip hazards and discouraging littering.

"Clean sidewalks don?t just look good; they also contribute to a safer pedestrian environment," Gilbert added. "We?re pleased with the positive feedback from the community and local business owners."

The benefits of this cleaning project go beyond looks and safety. Cleaner public spaces can attract more visitors, which helps local businesses. Shop owners in the Clifton Gaslight District have already noticed a positive change in foot traffic, boosting the local economy.

Using eco-friendly practices was also crucial to this project. iShine Cincy takes pride in using cleaning solutions that are not harmful to the environment.
