GreenMountain GreenWalls has introduced detailed care tips for their preserved moss wall art, making it simpler for customers to maintain and enjoy their installations for many years. The Vermont-based company specializes in creating living plant walls and preserved moss art for both homes and businesses. They focus on bringing the beauty of nature indoors and transforming spaces into green sanctuaries. These new guidelines are part of GreenMountain GreenWalls' efforts to ensure customer satisfaction and the durability of their products.

The company?s preserved moss wall art is celebrated for being low-maintenance and long-lasting. The moss used is real, yet preserved in a way that makes it nearly maintenance-free. It keeps its natural look for over ten years in almost any indoor environment.

?Our goal is to offer nature-inspired solutions that are both beautiful and practical,? said Andrew Lawrence, CEO of GreenMountain GreenWalls. ?Proper maintenance ensures that our moss wall art remains a highlight in any space for many years.?

Maintaining preserved moss wall art involves a few simple steps: dusting, avoiding direct sunlight, managing humidity, and not over-watering. Regular dusting helps keep the moss clean from debris. While the preserved moss doesn?t need sunlight to thrive, direct sunlight should be avoided to prevent color fading. Managing room humidity is also important; too much moisture can damage the preserved moss. Lastly, since the moss isn?t living, it doesn?t need water, and over-watering can lead to mold.

Customers frequently ask how long a preserved moss wall will last. With the right care, GreenMountain GreenWalls' moss art can look good for 10-15 years, making it a smart choice for long-term home or office décor.

Besides preserved moss art, GreenMountain GreenWalls offers other services like living plant walls, interior landscaping, and flexible maintenance options. Their living plant walls are great for both indoors and outdoors. They can create anything from small 2x3 ft walls to large 2,000 sq ft commercial installations, customizing their solutions to meet various needs and budgets. They are the only company offering these unique services in Northern and Central Vermont.

Andrew Lawrence also noted, ?We believe that everyone deserves to experience the beauty and peace that natural elements bring to a space. Our maintenance tips make it easy to enjoy our preserved moss art without any extra hassle.?

For additional help, GreenMountain GreenWalls offers flexible maintenance plans. These plans can be tailored to fit specific needs, whether weekly, biweekly, or monthly. For larger installations, integrated irrigation systems can be included to simplify care routines.
