Costa Mesa, California - June 20, 2024 -
Resurgence Behavioral Health, a leader in addiction treatment and rehabilitation, is proud to announce the launch of its comprehensive "Am I an Addict?" quiz, available online for anyone seeking to understand their relationship with substances. This new tool aims to provide people with an accessible and private way to evaluate their substance use and determine whether they may need professional help.

Substance addiction can often go unnoticed or be difficult to acknowledge. The "Am I an Addict?" quiz by Resurgence Behavioral Health addresses this challenge by offering a series of insightful questions designed to help individuals reflect on their behaviors and symptoms related to substance use. The quiz covers various aspects of addiction, including physical dependence, psychological impact, and social consequences, providing a well-rounded assessment for users.

The quiz consists of questions that explore different dimensions of addiction, including the frequency of substance use, as well as the impact on daily responsibilities and relationships. Physical and emotional symptoms, as well as attempts to cut down or control use and feelings of guilt or regret related to substance use, are all areas the quiz explores.

Early intervention is crucial in addressing addiction and preventing further deterioration of health and well-being. The "Am I an Addict?" quiz serves as a valuable resource for early identification of potential substance use disorders. By answering the quiz questions honestly, people can gain insight into their situation and take the first step toward seeking the necessary support and treatment.

Josh Chandler, a spokesperson from Resurgence Behavioral Health, said, "The launch of the 'Am I an Addict?' quiz reflects our commitment to providing accessible tools for those struggling with substance use. This quiz empowers people by offering a private and non-judgmental way to assess their behaviors and make informed decisions about seeking help."

One of the key features of the "Am I an Addict?" quiz is its accessibility and confidentiality. Available online, the quiz can be taken at any time from the privacy of one's home. The results are immediate and provide users with a clearer understanding of their substance use patterns. The quiz is confidential, ensuring that individuals can seek help without fear of stigma or judgment.

The quiz results are not a formal diagnosis but rather a starting point for understanding one's relationship with substances. Resurgence Behavioral Health encourages those who score highly on the quiz or have concerns about their substance use to reach out for professional support. The organization offers a range of treatment programs tailored to each patient?s unique needs, including medical detoxification, residential treatment, outpatient programs, and aftercare planning.
