August 07, 2024 -
Home Instead New Forest has announced a new initiative to cut down waiting times for new home care clients. The company is known for offering personalised care services in areas like Lymington, Milford on Sea, Hordle, Sway, and Brockenhurst. They aim to meet the rising demand for quality home care by ensuring clients receive timely support.

Their services cater to both general and specific needs. Home visits include companionship, personal care, and help with daily tasks to make sure clients' everyday necessities are looked after. They also provide specialised care for people dealing with conditions such as Alzheimer's, dementia, cancer, Parkinson's, and neurological disorders. Health care services include vital signs monitoring and diabetes management. For those needing full-time help, live-in care ensures that clients get continuous support in the comfort of their homes.

Tim Oswald, a representative of Home Instead New Forest, stressed the importance of a person-centred approach. "Each client has unique needs and preferences. Our goal is to match them with caregivers who meet their healthcare needs and share similar interests. This helps to build a meaningful and supportive relationship," Oswald said.

Home Instead New Forest's services are made to be flexible and customisable based on each client's needs. Their home visit programme aims to reduce the loneliness many elderly people face by offering companionship and social interaction. Home help and housekeeping make sure clients' homes stay tidy and comfortable, while personal care services assist with grooming and hygiene.

Specialised care programmes address the challenges linked to conditions like Alzheimer's and Dementia

Care & Live in Care. These services focus on managing symptoms and improving the clients' quality of life. Care for those with cancer or Parkinson's supports clients both physically and emotionally. Postoperative & recovery care helps clients transition smoothly from the hospital to home.

For more clinical needs, Home Instead New Forest provides health care services like nail and wound care, catheter and stoma care, and diabetes monitoring. These are crucial for maintaining the client's overall health. Non-invasive ventilation, gastrostomy care, & feeding support further broaden the range of specialised help available.

Live-in care is particularly helpful for clients needing ongoing, round-the-clock support. Caregivers live in the home, offering continuous care that includes personal care, housekeeping, meal preparation, medication management, and companionship. This lets clients stay in their own homes, preserving their independence while receiving the care they need.

"Our live-in care services provide peace of mind for clients and their families," Oswald noted. "Being able to stay in a familiar environment often leads to better emotional and physical health for our clients. We take pride in offering this level of support."

The new initiative to lower waiting times for new clients highlights Home Instead New Forest's dedication to community service and client care. They believe that quick access to care can greatly affect the well-being of new clients. By focussing on reducing delays, the company ensures that clients receive the care they need promptly.
