

Thomas Wildlife Control Expands Squirrel Removal Services to Combat Home Intrusions

July 01, 2024

July 01, 2024 -
Thomas Wildlife Control is announcing a major expansion in its animal removal services. This new addition aims to address the growing issue of squirrel intrusions in homes, especially in attics, where these animals can cause significant damage.

Thomas Wildlife Control is a family-owned wildlife control business based in Rocklin, California. The company serves Sacramento, Placer, and El Dorado counties. Holding a CSLB license for R-39 Roofing, it is one of the few licensed pest and exclusion companies in the Sacramento area. The new squirrel removal services will complement their wide range of other wildlife control services, including rodent exclusion, bird removal, and roof repair.

Squirrels, while often seen as harmless, can become a big problem when they get into homes. They are known to chew through roofing materials, plumbing, and even electrical wiring, which can lead to potential fire hazards and serious structural damage. They can also ruin insulation and drywall with their urine and feces.

?Our team is dedicated to providing effective and humane squirrel removal services. We understand the stress and inconvenience that a squirrel infestation can cause. That?s why we?re committed to helping our customers safely remove these animals and prevent future problems,? says Brandon T., a spokesperson for the company.

The company's approach to squirrel removal is thorough. It involves safely trapping and removing squirrels, sealing off entry points to prevent re-entry, and providing clean-up and repair services. This ensures that homeowners are left with a resolved issue and no ongoing concerns about potential re-infestation.

Thomas Wildlife Control also stresses the importance of early detection when it comes to dealing with squirrel intrusions. Homeowners should watch for common signs of squirrel presence, such as scratching, walking, or rustling sounds, and visible damage to shingles, roofs, soffits, or exterior vents.

?Getting to the problem early can save homeowners significant time and money in repairs,? Brandon T. adds. ?Our goal is not only to remove the current problem but also to educate homeowners on preventative measures to keep squirrels out for good.?

In addition to their expertise in handling squirrel issues, Thomas Wildlife Control offers a variety of other wildlife and rodent control services. These include wildlife and rodent trapping, varmint removal, and bird removal and exclusion. The company?s team of technicians is trained to handle wildlife intrusions in hard-to-reach areas such as attics, crawl spaces, and walls. They are also equipped to detect unusual noises, which may indicate hidden wildlife, and to sanitize affected areas.

To learn more about their comprehensive squirrel removal solutions, visit Thomas Wildlife Control's squirrel control and removal page. The detailed approach they take ensures that homes are protected from future wildlife intrusions.

The company prides itself on its high level of professionalism and customer service, as evidenced by a recent five-star review from a customer named Jorja Jackson. She praised the team members Brandon and Dan for their knowledge, professionalism, and willingness to go above and beyond to resolve her wildlife issue.

Thomas Wildlife Control offers appointments Monday through Friday from 7:00 AM to 4:00 PM, with Saturday appointments also available. Those interested in their services can contact them via phone at (916) 500-9027. The company maintains a presence on Facebook, YouTube, and Yelp, where customers can find more information about their offerings and read additional reviews.

For more information about their service areas, which include Sacramento, Placer, and El Dorado counties, and to learn more about their new squirrel removal services, visit their website at thomaswildlifecontrol.com.

Thomas Wildlife Control is committed to using safe, legal, and humane measures in all their services and does not offer animal trapping from backyards or property perimeters. The company continues to evolve its service offerings to meet the growing needs of homeowners dealing with wildlife intrusions, ensuring peace of mind and safety for the communities they serve.

Thomas Wildlife Control's squirrel removal services are designed to tackle the challenges posed by these animals in residential settings. By offering solutions that focus on prevention and long-term results, Thomas Wildlife Control aims to provide homeowners with peace of mind. This is reflected in the company's comprehensive approach to resolving squirrel infestations.

Hiring professionals like those at Thomas Wildlife Control squirrel removal services ensures that not only are the current problems addressed, but future issues are prevented. The team uses safe and humane methods to handle all types of wildlife intrusions effectively.

###

For more information about Thomas Wildlife Control, contact the company here:Thomas Wildlife ControlBrandon T.916-500-9027info@thomaswildlifecontrol.comThomas Wildlife ControlRocklin, CA 95765

Thomas Wildlife Control

We pride ourselves on providing the best service with the most value in the area. We are a no-nonsense company that provides clients, like yourself, with permanent solutions every day.

Website: https://thomaswildlifecontrol.com/

Email: info@thomaswildlifecontrol.com

Phone: 916-500-9027