July 17, 2024 -
The Grass Outlet, a Texas-based company known for freshly harvested sod grass, has announced that it will expand its delivery services to more areas within the state. This expansion shows the company's dedication to providing top-quality grass directly from local growers to homes. With multiple service points in both Austin and San Antonio, The Grass Outlet aims to meet the growing demand for quality lawn and landscaping solutions.

Mike Piwonka, the CEO of The Grass Outlet, shared, "Our goal is to make premium sod grass easily accessible to more homeowners across Texas. We know how important it is to have a beautiful and healthy lawn, and we are committed to delivering the freshest grass sod available."

The company offers a wide variety of grass types for online ordering, such as different strains of St. Augustine Grass, Bermuda Grass, and Zoysia Grass. Each type of grass has its own features, benefits, and care instructions, allowing every customer to find the best match for their lawn's unique needs.

The Grass Outlet's website includes a detailed grass care guide. It covers important topics like pre-planting preparations, installation tips, irrigation practices, fertilization, and weed management. These resources aim to help customers maintain lush and vibrant lawns throughout the year.

In addition, the company provides various grass tips and advice to help users deal with common grass-related issues. Customers can rely on this information to keep their lawns healthy and green, even in the tough weather conditions typical of Texas. The Grass Outlet is focused on customer education, believing that informed customers make better decisions about their lawn care.

Landscaping contractors can also benefit from The Grass Outlet's services. The company offers account management and shopping cart features tailored to professionals in the field, showing its versatility and willingness to meet the needs of different types of customers.

The company has received positive feedback from clients. For example, a recent 5-star review from Larry Sloan on Google Maps highlighted the ease of online ordering, timely delivery, and the high quality of the grass. Larry mentioned that he installed the grass in his front yard by himself before noon and was pleased by how healthy it looked even a month later.

Mike Piwonka also commented on the importance of customer feedback, saying, "Hearing experiences like Larry's reinforces our dedication to customer satisfaction. It's gratifying to know that our efforts are making a real difference in the lives of homeowners."

The Grass Outlet's expansion efforts are supported by four generations of turfgrass expertise. The company farms in the nutrient-rich soil and favorable climate of the Texas Gulf Coast. Harvesting on an order-only basis ensures that each purchase includes the freshest grass sod possible.

The Grass Outlet in Austin, TX, is not just available online. The company has two additional locations in Austin and one in San Antonio, so customers can choose the nearest pick-up points for the most convenience. Social media platforms like Instagram, Facebook, and LinkedIn also make it easy for customers to stay connected with the company and receive updates on new services and offerings.

Security is a top priority for The Grass Outlet. The website features SSL encryption and two-factor authentication to keep customers' data safe during transactions and interactions.

The Grass Outlet prides itself on being a reliable grass sod company, providing excellence from the farm to the customer's doorstep. With the expanded service area, more Texas residents can now enjoy the benefits of premium sod grass for their homes and commercial properties.
