Watertight Homes Ltd has built a strong reputation over the years due to their comprehensive approach to property care and preservation. They have expertise in diagnosing and fixing damp-related issues, safeguarding both the health of residents and the structural integrity of properties.

The company also offers specialized services like basement waterproofing and tanking. These processes involve applying a waterproof coating to the walls and floor of a basement to prevent water from getting in. These measures are essential for keeping a basement dry and secure.

Condensation treatment is another important service provided by Watertight Homes. This treatment helps resolve humidity issues that can lead to damp and mold growth, ensuring a healthier living environment. Wet rot treatment is also available to handle fungal decay in timber, which can cause serious structural damage if not addressed.

The company's timber preservation services protect wood from various forms of decay, like dry rot, wet rot, and woodworm, ensuring the longevity and safety of wooden structures in a property.
