

The Sunday School Store Launches New "Emotions in the Bible" Curriculum for Kids' Emotional Growth Through Biblical Lessons

July 30, 2024

Sellersburg, Indiana - July 30, 2024 -
The Sunday School Store has introduced a new children's ministry curriculum named "Emotions in the Bible." This fresh curriculum explores the role of emotions in the lives of biblical figures. The 4-lesson series was developed by Tony Kummer, drawing inspiration from a personal conversation about emotional expression within his family.

"Emotions in the Bible" is designed for kids aged 6-12. It helps them understand emotions from a biblical viewpoint. The curriculum talks about why God created emotions, how they can sometimes be overwhelming, and how they can be used to honor God. The lessons cover topics like happiness, fear, trust, and anger, featuring stories from the lives of Hannah, Elijah, Mary, and Jesus. Each lesson is crafted to be both practical and engaging, combining Bible Emotions Lessons with activities that are suited for children.

"Our emotions are a wonderful gift from God," said Tony Kummer, editor at The Sunday School Store. "They are fundamental to experiencing the fullness of life as God intended. But in our fallen world, emotions can be influenced by sin, and we need God's wisdom to navigate them."

The curriculum also includes various resources to enhance the learning experience. These include printable word search worksheets, Bible story coloring pages, discussion questions, crafts, and straightforward lesson plans. All these materials are available through digital downloads, making it easy for different religious education settings to use.

Feedback from users of previous curriculum materials has been incorporated to make sure this new offering is effective and user-friendly. Resources available for free download can be used to complement the main curriculum or serve as stand-alone activities. This approach supports educators in delivering comprehensive and engaging lessons without additional cost.

The Sunday School Store regularly updates its materials. Tony Kummer's latest updates often introduce new elements to the curriculum, including innovative learning activities that help educators stay up to date with additional educational resources.

Another recent release from The Sunday School Store is the "Heroes of Holy Week" curriculum specifically for Easter. This curriculum uses engaging stories and activities to help children understand the significance of Easter. Also available is the "Gospel Jesus Curriculum," which focuses on the teachings and life of Jesus. These materials cater to various aspects of Christian faith and education.

The Sunday School Store offers multiple curriculum bundles for different age groups and educational needs. For example, the "Ultimate Toddler Bundle" teaches children aged 1-3 about God through age-appropriate activities and lessons.

Additionally, the store offers a comprehensive 52-week curriculum tailored to provide year-long educational content for Sunday school. This package includes a blend of Bible stories, crafts, games, and songs, making it suitable for various age groups including elementary, preschool, and toddler ministry.

"Emotions in the Bible" and other products can be used in a range of educational settings, from small churches to large children's ministry programs. Their flexible, easy-to-teach format makes these resources accessible for many educational setups.

For more information on the new Bible Emotions Lessons, the complete lesson plan is available on The Sunday School Store's website. The curriculum's structure ensures a smooth teaching experience, whether used in a small church, kids' church, or Sunday School setting.

Teachers and educators can also access sample lessons and additional free lesson resources on affiliated platforms. This collaboration helps ensure that high-quality educational materials are easily available and can be integrated seamlessly into existing teaching plans.

To keep up with the latest updates on new releases and curriculum offerings, educators can follow The Sunday School Store on social media platforms like Facebook, Pinterest, and YouTube. The store actively encourages feedback and experiences from users in the comments sections of their online resources, maintaining a supportive and engaged educational community.

Through a mix of solid curriculum offerings, free resources, and the latest updates on innovative educational materials, The Sunday School Store continues to support the spiritual and emotional education of children in various religious settings. The newly released "Emotions in the Bible" curriculum aims to help children navigate their emotions with a solid biblical foundation.
