D&A Environmental Expands Junk Removal Services in Sellersburg, Indiana with New Driveway and Storm Cleanup

August 07, 2024

Sellersburg, Indiana - August 07, 2024 -
D&A Environmental, a debris removal service based in Clark County, Indiana, recently announced a broader range of services to better serve the Louisville area and nearby counties. They now offer enhanced grapple truck services, driveway removal, and storm debris cleanup to provide more efficient and reliable solutions for their customers.

Dan Kummer, co-founder of D&A Environmental, shared the company's goal: "We do the job right and at a fair price. Instead of spending money on a roll-away dumpster, the smart choice is to call us first and see what our grapple truck can do for you."

Located at 616 E Utica St, Sellersburg, IN 47172, the company focuses on saving costs and improving efficiency. Their grapple truck service is flexible and powerful, managing large amounts of debris with fewer trips and less manual work compared to traditional methods. This is especially helpful for clients needing quick clean-up after storms or during major renovation projects.

D&A Environmental Sellersburg is also expanding its driveway removal services. This helps homeowners and businesses replace old, damaged driveways with new ones without the hassle of debris buildup. Using specialized equipment, the company ensures that the removal process is smooth and minimally disruptive. This can save property owners time and money during significant renovations or updates.

In addition, their storm debris cleanup service aims to quickly address the aftermath of severe weather events. The skilled team at D&A Environmental responds swiftly and effectively, helping communities return to normal with minimal delays after storms.

"After a big storm, it's essential for residents to clear debris quickly to maintain safety and restore order. Our team is trained to handle these situations efficiently," said Kummer. "We help communities recover faster, and we're proud to offer this service."

D&A Environmental has built a strong reputation for reliability and customer satisfaction. Serving Louisville and surrounding counties, their approach reduces the need for dumpsters, offering a more efficient and often more affordable option for debris removal. Their grapple trucks and well-trained teams provide convenient cleanup services tailored to each job's unique needs.

Those needing these services are encouraged to contact D&A Environmental through their website at ditchthedumpster.com or via email at daenvironmental21@gmail.com. Potential customers can discuss their specific needs with the company's representatives to receive personalized advice and solutions suited to their tasks.

Using specialized equipment and a commitment to doing the job right, D&A Environmental has become a preferred choice for debris removal across Clark County and beyond. Their mobile services ensure that clients throughout the broader Louisville area have access to effective and comprehensive cleanup options.

For more information on the services offered by D&A Environmental or to schedule a consultation, customers can visit the company's detailed online media room powered by Press Advantage at pressadvantage.com/organization/d-a-environmental. Their thorough approach to client needs and readiness to tackle a variety of cleanup projects reflect their dedication to community well-being.

"This expansion is about more than adding services; it's about improving our ability to meet client needs accurately and efficiently," Kummer concluded.

As local and surrounding communities continue to grow and face new challenges, companies like D&A Environmental play a key role in maintaining cleanliness and order. Through their enhanced grapple truck service, driveway removal, and storm debris cleanup, D&A Environmental Sellersburg continues to support residents and businesses, ensuring a cleaner and safer environment.
