GreenMountain GreenWalls has just launched a detailed guide about the benefits of indoor plant walls for offices and workspaces. This guide helps businesses and individuals turn their interiors into live, green areas, boosting both visual appeal and overall well-being. Learn more about the benefits on their Benefits of Indoor Plant Walls page.

The company, known for its living plant walls and preserved moss art installations, offers in-depth insights into why indoor plant walls are a good idea for professional spaces. These benefits include better air quality, higher employee productivity, and improved mental health.

A major focus of the guide is the sustainability of indoor plant walls. GreenMountain GreenWalls uses responsibly sourced plants and recyclable or biodegradable materials. These walls act as natural air purifiers, getting rid of pollutants and toxins, which creates a healthier indoor environment.

Andrew Lawrence, CEO of GreenMountain GreenWalls, stressed the importance of the guide, saying, "We are dedicated to not just changing spaces, but also to promoting a healthier and more productive work environment. Ensuring Success with Vermont Indoor Plant Walls is designed to give practical advice and encourage businesses to make their workspaces greener."

The guide also discusses how greenery affects mental health. Research shows that plants can decrease stress and anxiety, making for a more positive and uplifting atmosphere. This boosts overall morale and helps build a sense of community among employees. The guide gives practical tips on how to blend indoor plant walls with existing office decor to create a balanced and lovely space.

GreenMountain GreenWalls offers custom solutions for indoor plant wall installations, catering to both homes and businesses. They ensure their green walls can fit any space and budget, from small, cozy installations to large commercial areas.

Ashley from Highline Design Studio shared her experience, saying, "We recently worked with GreenMountain GreenWalls on two large projects, one residential and one commercial. Brady and his team were amazing! They went the extra mile to help us template the perfect shape for a complicated curved wall with an organic-shaped moss feature that integrated with wood, and it turned out better than anticipated. The communication, organization, and trust can't be beat. We are looking forward to working with them soon."

GreenMountain GreenWalls also provides flexible maintenance services. These include weekly, biweekly, and monthly check-ups to make sure the installations stay vibrant and healthy. The company collaborates with clients to create best practices and flexible options tailored to their green walls. This includes adding irrigation systems when necessary, as well as grooming and fertilizing the plants.

Their preserved moss art installations offer another unique way to bring nature inside. These pieces, made from real moss that's been preserved, are maintenance-free and can last between 10-15 years. This is a great option for those who love the look of nature but don't want the upkeep that living plants need.

For those who want to learn more about the benefits of indoor plant walls, the new guide from GreenMountain GreenWalls is a useful resource. The company wants to educate and inspire, helping businesses create spaces that enhance creativity, productivity, and well-being. They have been featured in several news articles, further highlighting their expertise and dedication to green solutions.
