Each year, more than 420 businesses are recognized through this program. To determine the winners, Eugene locals first nominate their favorite establishments in the community. The top five most nominated in each category move on to the voting round. Members of the community then vote, determining which of the five nominees earns the top spot in their respective categories.

With the power to nominate and vote placed directly in the hands of the local community, these awards are a true reflection of the preferences and trust of Eugene residents.
