Home Instead Expands Premier Home Care Service in Gillingham to Enhance Community Support

September 12, 2024

September 12, 2024 -
Home Instead, a home care service provider based in Warminster and Gillingham, is expanding its high-quality home care services in Gillingham, Dorset. This expansion aims to provide residents with personalised support quickly, addressing a significant need for reliable home care in the community. Home Instead offers various services, including companionship, home help, personal care, and specialised care options, all designed to improve the quality of life for their clients.

Home Instead Warminster & Gillingham delivers key services to help people live independently at home. The company provides regular home visits where care professionals offer companionship, help with housekeeping tasks, personal care, day and night care, and respite care for family caregivers. Each service is personalised to meet the unique needs of their clients, ensuring complete support.

Romesh Dharmasingham, a spokesperson for Home Instead Warminster & Gillingham, shared the company's mission and commitment. "We are proud to extend our home care services to Gillingham, ensuring that residents have access to high-quality, personalised care. Our goal is to provide the best possible support to individuals and their families, helping them live their lives with dignity and independence."

Home Instead also offers specialised care for people with specific conditions like Alzheimer's, dementia, cancer, Parkinson's, neurological disorders, those needing palliative care, postoperative recovery, and arthritis and mobility issues. Trained professionals provide this specialised care, focussing on the unique needs and well-being of each client.

Healthcare services from Home Instead include routine tasks such as nail care, catheter and stoma care, simple wound care, and vital signs monitoring. These services are essential for individuals with medical conditions requiring ongoing supervision and management. The company's care professionals are also equipped to handle diabetes monitoring, non-invasive ventilation, gastrostomy care, and feeding support.

Live-in care is another important service Home Instead offers. This service has a care professional living in the client's home, providing round-the-clock support and ensuring that the client's needs are met at all times. This level of care is especially beneficial for individuals who require constant assistance and prefer staying at home.

Home Instead Warminster & Gillingham's expansion is supported by their strong reputation for delivering excellent home care services. The company has a 'Good' rating from the Care Quality Commission (CQC), which shows their commitment to maintaining high standards and providing excellent care. This rating is an important sign of the quality and reliability of the services they offer.

"Our team is dedicated to improving the lives of individuals in Gillingham by providing compassionate and professional care," added Romesh Dharmasingham. "We understand the importance of having a reliable support system, and our care professionals are trained to deliver the best service possible, ensuring our clients' well-being and satisfaction."

Those interested can explore the company's expanded services further on their website. Home Instead also offers advice and support to individuals and families regarding the cost of care, frequently asked questions, and tips on how to age well. Their dedicated team works closely with clients to ensure they live the best life possible, supported by comprehensive and responsive care services.
