August 12, 2025 -
Markhoff & Mittman, P.C., a new york city work injury attorney, comments on a recent work injury incident involving a group of electricians who lost control of a heavy wire reel while rolling it down a ramp. One worker's hand became caught under the reel, resulting in multiple fractures, deep lacerations, and significant tissue damage.

Commenting on the accident, Mr. Mittman emphasized the critical importance of maintaining rigorous safety practices on construction sites. He stated, "This unfortunate accident underscores the need for constant vigilance and adherence to safety protocols. While accidents can happen, they are often preventable with the right precautions."

Mr. Mittman further noted that employers have a responsibility to provide a safe working environment, including proper training and equipment to handle potentially hazardous tasks. He added, "Workers who suffer injuries on the job may be entitled to compensation, not only for their immediate medical needs but also for long-term impacts on their ability to work."

The attorney's remarks serve as a reminder that safety should always be the top priority in the construction industry. Markhoff & Mittman, P.C. continues to advocate for workers' rights and safety, offering free case consultations for those injured in construction accidents.
