

White Plains Accident Attorney Discusses Tragic Route 9W Crash

August 29, 2024

City of White Plains, New York - August 29, 2024 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

A serene Saturday afternoon in Clarkstown, New York turned tragic as a two-car collision on Route 9W resulted in the death of an elderly woman. This incident serves as a sobering reminder of the importance of road safety and the potential consequences of even a momentary lapse in attention.

According to Clarkstown police, the fatal crash occurred on North Highland Avenue, also known as Route 9W. The victim, a woman in her late 80s, was traveling southbound when her vehicle unexpectedly veered into the northbound lane. The resulting collision with an oncoming vehicle proved fatal for the elderly driver.

While the elderly woman tragically lost her life, the incident also affected others: The driver of the other vehicle involved in the crash was rushed to the hospital. Fortunately, their injuries were not considered life-threatening. Local traffic was severely disrupted, with Route 9W closed to all but residents of the road for an extended period.

Mr. Mittman, a seasoned personal injury attorney, emphasized the importance of road safety in light of this tragic event. "This incident underscores the critical importance of road safety, especially for our elderly drivers," Mittman stated. "While the full details are yet to emerge, such accidents often involve complex factors like visibility, reaction time, and road conditions."

The attorney went on to stress the need for increased vigilance among all drivers and for communities to continually assess and improve road safety measures, particularly in areas with a history of accidents.

Mittman also highlighted the broader implications of the incident, noting that it raises important questions about elderly drivers and road safety. He encouraged families to have open discussions about driving abilities and to consider alternatives when necessary.

"As we mourn the loss of a community member, let this incident serve as a catalyst for positive change," Mittman added. "By fostering open discussions about road safety, supporting our elderly population, and working together as a community, we can strive to prevent such tragedies in the future."
