

California Farm to Give Away a Subscription to an Organic Fruit Box

March 31, 2015

March 31, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Brentwood, California, United States ? March 31, 2015 ?

(Summary) The Monthly Cornucopia of California giveaway by Frog Hollow Farm will award a sample box of mixed seasonal California fruit once a month for three months.

Frog Hollow Farm is running a contest during the month of April to give away a three month subscription to their Monthly Cornucopia of California fruit delivery program. The winner, chosen from nationwide entries, will receive a box of seasonally ripe, certified organic fruit once a month in May, June and July.

The winner will enjoy the best of organic tree-ripened fruit grown in California including ripe organic apricots, peaches, plums, nectarines and pluots. The fruit is allowed to ripen on the tree before being carefully picked and shipped from tree to table in 48 hours.

Shipping and handling for this fresh fruit program is included in the prize for a total value of $160. Fresh fruit ships via the United Parcel Service Mondays through Wednesdays and arrives in two days.

The contest closes April 30 and a winner will be chosen May 1, 2015. No purchase is necessary to enter. Entries are free, and entrants can earn additional entries by participating in liking, sharing, tweeting and pinning at Facebook, Twitter and Pinterest.

Year after year Frog Hollow Farm continues to delight fresh fruit lovers around the country. The Monthly Cornucopia of California giveaway is owner Al Courchesne's way to kick off what looks to be a very fruitful harvest ? a true cornucopia of abundance and nourishment. Frog Hollow Farm grows more than twelve varieties of organic peaches and fourteen varieties of organic apricots, plus organic plums, cherries, and nectarines.

Frog Hollow Farm is a 143-acre organic farm located east of San Francisco in the fertile Sacramento River Delta. The Frog Hollow Farm orchards find a perfect home in Brentwood, California's Mediterranean-type climate with its warm days and cool nights. Farmer Al has been called a "rock star" of the organic fruit delivery industry because he selects only the sweetest, most flavorful, tree-ripened fruit to ship directly to his customers, from tree to table in 48 hours. All tree-ripened fruit from Frog Hollow Farm is carefully boxed and shipped unblemished and ready to eat. Farmer Al insists, "We are sticklers for quality and want to make certain you get the best organic fruit possible."

According to Farmer Al, only 2% of fruit is cosmetically perfect. Fruit with minor blemishes makes up the bulk of any harvest and much of it goes to area Farmer's Markets. Beautiful fruit that is ripe enough to have great flavor and survive shipping goes to their mail order customers. Ripe and ready-to-eat blemished fruit finds a home in the weekly boxes of the Community Supported Agriculture program they operate in California's San Francisco Bay Area.
