Denver, Colorado - September 18, 2024 -
DENVER, CO ? Cutarelli Vision LASIK Denver & RLE is pleased to announce the early success of its new office in Denver, located at 7900 E Union Ave #100, just one block north of its old office on Belleview. Opened in 2024, the facility has quickly become a leading destination for advanced LASIK and vision correction services, thanks to the expertise of Dr. Paul Cutarelli and his dedicated team.

Dr. Paul Cutarelli, an ophthalmologist with over two decades of experience in Denver and the Front Range, is renowned for his work in LASIK, RLE, cataract surgery, and the treatment of keratoconus. The new Denver LASIK location has already received an overwhelmingly positive response from the community and furthers the practice?s commitment to excellence in customized vision correction beyond LASIK.

"We are so grateful to our patients in the Denver area for their warmth and support," said Dr. Paul Cutarelli. "Our approach to vision correction remains patient-centered. We emphasize customized treatment plans and unique techniques and unique technology for vision correction. This new location allows us to make vision correction more comfortable and convenient, especially for patients who wish to improved their distance and up close reading vision via refractive lens exchange (RLE)."

The Denver office features state-of-the-art LASIK and SMILE LASIK technology, which enables Cutarelli Vision to offer all of the relevant vision correction procedures, including LASIK, PRK, SMILE, RLE surgery, and keratoconus treatments such as cross linking, Intacts and topography guided corneal smoothing for irregular astigmatism. "Cutarelli Vision continues to innovate and offer leading techniques and technology. We are enthusiastic about our new Denver location," said Dr. Cutarelli. "We continue to serve our patients with excellence and the care that they expect from us. Our goal is to help as many people as possible achieve optimal vision and improve their quality of life."

Laser-assisted in situ keratomileusis, commonly known as LASIK, is a popular and effective procedure for correcting refractive errors such as myopia, hyperopia, and astigmatism. The practice uses LASIK, which offers several advantages over traditional methods, including increased precision, reduced risk of complications, and faster recovery times.

Patient education is a cornerstone of Cutarelli Vision's approach. The practice believes that informed patients are better equipped to make decisions about vision correction. Dr. Cutarelli and his team take the time to explain each procedure, answer questions, and provide detailed information about what patients can expect before, during, and after their treatments.

Patients who have undergone LASIK in the Denver office and RLE vision correction procedures reflect the success of the Denver LASIK office through their positive feedback. Many continue to share their success stories and testimonials, which highlight the life-changing impact of their treatments. Patients praise the personalized care they received, and not how comfortable and well-informed they felt throughout their journey.

The new Denver LASIK and RLE location offers office based lens surgery. In addition to LASIK and cataract surgery, Cutarelli Vision offers a range of other services, including photorefractive keratectomy (PRK), implantable collamer lens (ICL), and corneal cross-linking. These procedures cater to patients who are not candidates for LASIK, who have irregular or high astigmatism, and also to personal preferences.
