

"Ministry-To-Children Launches 2024 Childrens Ministry Curriculum for Small Congregations"

September 23, 2024

Sellersburg, Indiana - September 23, 2024 -
Ministry-To-Children has announced a new, affordable children's church curriculum for 2024. This program is crafted specifically for smaller congregations with limited budgets and resources. Created by Tony Kummer, founder of Ministry-To-Children and a former children's pastor, the curriculum seeks to offer an engaging and accessible way to teach faith to children aged 6-12 years old.

The curriculum includes user-friendly lesson plans, coloring pages, children's sermons, worksheets, Bible crafts, and discussion questions. It features themes like "Heroes of Holy Week," "Fruit of the Spirit," "Love Like Jesus," "Bible Beach Club," and "Back To School." Each theme comes with multiple lessons that can be adjusted for different age groups and church settings. This makes the material suitable for kids' church, Sunday school, or other youth programs, helping children connect with the lessons and fostering their personal faith journey.

"Creating an engaging curriculum for children's church is essential for helping kids build their faith," said Tony Kummer. "Our 2024 children's ministry curriculum offers a variety of materials and activities that are not only fun but also help kids understand and embrace the teachings of the Bible. We wanted to make sure that even the smallest congregations have access to quality resources without breaking the bank."

The focus on safety and accessibility is an important feature of this new curriculum. Teachers get instructional videos, best practices for managing a classroom, and tips for effectively engaging children. The digital format allows for instant download and includes print-friendly PDFs, making the resources easy to access and use. This feature is especially helpful for smaller churches that might not have the same level of resources as larger congregations.

Ministry-To-Children also offers a range of other resources. These include free Kids' Bible Lessons PDFs, a comprehensive 52-week curriculum for Sunday School, and additional craft activities. The website provides detailed Bible lessons for kids, complemented by creative craft activities that help children understand and remember Bible teachings.

Kummer added, "Our aim is to provide materials that are not just informative but also enjoyable for children. We believe that by making these lessons engaging, we can help children develop a lifelong relationship with their faith. The ministry curriculum is designed to cater to various learning styles and interests, which is important for keeping children involved and interested in their spiritual education."

The release of this new children's ministry curriculum comes at a time when there's a growing need for accessible and engaging Bible-based teaching materials. By offering these resources for free or at a low cost, Ministry-To-Children continues its commitment to supporting smaller churches and making Bible teachings accessible to everyone. The website also features free materials like Easter coloring pages and downloadable children's ministry curriculum packages.

The new children's church curriculum for 2024 is now available for download on the Ministry-To-Children website. For more information on the new curriculum and other resources for children's ministry, please visit the Ministry-To-Children website.

Ministry-To-Children has a long-standing tradition of providing free and high-quality resources for children's ministry. This new curriculum continues that tradition by offering a comprehensive and adaptable Bible curriculum for kids. The materials are designed to help children understand and embrace the teachings of the Bible, making learning about faith both fun and engaging.

The new offering is part of Ministry-To-Children's ongoing efforts to support children's ministry across various settings. With themes like "Heroes of Holy Week" and "Fruit of the Spirit," the curriculum aims to create a rich and diverse educational experience that resonates with children.
