

Morning Mugs in Locust Point Thanks Community For Grand Opening Weekend

September 26, 2024

September 26, 2024 -
Morning Mugs is happy to announce the grand opening of its second location in Locust Point. This new spot, located right in the heart of the community, aims to bring the same cozy atmosphere and consistently great coffee that folks have enjoyed at its Federal Hill location. With this expansion, Morning Mugs continues to spread joy through simple pleasures and build a culture of gratitude.

The grand opening weekend was a big hit. The Locust Point community came out in full support, and the coffee shop had a line out the door all weekend. They even sold out of their breakfast burritos and pastries. The French Toast Latte was the star of the show, winning over many new customers.

Tyler DellaRatta, the founder of Morning Mugs, shared his excitement about the new location: "We are incredibly grateful to the Locust Point community for their warm welcome. Seeing everyone enjoy our coffee and food, and joining in our fun guess-the-color-of-your-mug tradition, made our opening weekend truly special."

Morning Mugsoffers in-store service with a variety of coffee drinks and food items. Customers can expect the same quality that earned the Federal Hill location the title of Best Coffee Shop in Baltimore. Besides in-store service, the Locust Point coffee shop will also have online ordering for quick and easy pickup. This means customers can skip the line and get their coffee without waiting. Detailed information about their services can be found on their website, morningmugs.com.

DellaRatta spoke about how important the community is to Morning Mugs' success: "Our coffee shop is a reflection of all the people who have been part of our journey. We owe our success to the support and engagement of our community, and we're excited to create new memories with the Locust Point neighborhood."

Morning Mugs encourages its customers to share their stories and experiences. This engagement helps foster a sense of community and connection among customers. The company's focus on people and gratitude makes it special, giving customers a place where they feel appreciated. Customers can easily stay connected and share their stories on their website.

For those thinking about visiting the new location, more details can be found on their social media post, which thanks the Locust Point community for the grand opening. The link offers more information and marks the start of a new chapter for Morning Mugs in Locust Point.

Adding the Locust Point coffee shop means more opportunities for the community to enjoy what Morning Mugs has to offer. Whether folks are looking for a cozy place to relax, a quick coffee pickup, or a delicous breakfast on the go, the new location aims to meet these needs. Morning Mugs continues to focus on customer satisfaction and community building with every cup they serve.

Now that the grand opening is behind them, Morning Mugs looks forward to serving the Locust Point community and spreading joy with their tasty coffee and welcoming atmosphere. This expansion shows the company's growth and commitment to bringing people together over a shared love of coffee. More information on all their services and updates can be found on their instagram account.
