Ron's Amazing Products, a business in Catonsville, Maryland, is proud to announce that they have lowered the price of their pen camera. It used to be priced at $34.99, but it is now available at $29.99. This has encouraged more people to invest in the handy gadget. Full details are available through <http://www.amazon.com/gp/product/B00G2TEKM2>.

Ronald Hoff of Ron's Amazing Products says: "We want our customers to get the best value while getting the best pen camera on the market, specifically on Amazon. Our pen camera has received over 100 positive reviews that demonstrate how happy people are with it. Now that the price has been reduced, it is quite literally flying off the shelves."

The popularity of the pen camera is undeniable, which is why it is now classed as a bestselling item on Amazon. Since the time that it was originally launched, it has received a wealth of positive reviews, and a noticeable increase in positive reviews has been observed since the lowering of the price. "I bought this product to conduct my mystery shops," says C Colquitt. "This turned out to be a good buy. The audio and clear 1080i picture quality are superb. It is easy to download the video to your PC just by simply plugging it into a USB port. There is also a switch on the inside of the pen that allows you to switch from taking pics to taking video, but you can't do both at the same time. The pen also actually writes, so it is disguised a bit more."

The company has also recently released a YouTube video that clearly highlights how the pen camera can be used. This is designed to assist people in making sure they can get the most out of their device. The video also includes some basic troubleshooting information. The video can be viewed through <http://www.youtube.com/user/RonsAmazingProducts>.

Customers are encouraged to watch the YouTube video to understand more about how the pen works and it can best be used. The channel includes a number of other videos to further improve the pen's usage as well. Further details are available through the Amazon marketplace.
