January 15, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Hong Kong based company Rightnow Products Limited is responding to the rise in demand for its knee braces in the international market. The company has noticed a report highlighting how these kind of products are being used by more and more people as they seek relief for their pain. In response, they have once again started to promote their knee brace and ensured that production capability can keep up. The report can be seen at <http://www.medgadget.com/2016/01/global-knee-braces-market-2016-industry-share-size-trends-research-review-analysis-by-qy-market-research.html>.

Eric Arnow, spokesperson for Rightnow Products Limited, says: "When industry experts and medical professionals alike are noticing an increase in demand, it was clearly time for us to listen. The recent report in medGadget really proves this and we are happy to be one of the companies that offers a knee brace that is accessible to the general public."

The market report that was noticed by the company was titled "Worldwide Knee Braces Market 2016" and was an analytical study of the competitive framework of the industry for knee braces. They said research predicts a compound annual growth rate and considers every aspect of the international market for knee braces including the rules and regulations, current policies, the industrial chain, the manufacturing chain, price structures, the products, and revenue. The study also analyzes the performance of the industry, logistics, the dynamics of supply and demand, and production capacity.

As there is now a global market for knee braces, Rightnow Products is stepping up the production capacity for their knee sleeve that is designed to address people's pain. As people age, knee pain becomes a factor in their daily living, and it is this concern that the company aims to address with the product. The Rightnow For Knees product is available on Amazon through <http://www.amazon.com/dp/B016WQW7A6>.

Rightnow Products Limited has now dedicated a full website to their knee brace product. It can be accessed through <http://www.for-knees.com>. The website lists details about the knee brace itself, how to use it and how it can benefit people. Additionally, it links to current research about braces, knee conditions and support options to empower people to get the right treatment.
